Once More Around Ruth Gaillard:

Singularly Unfeminine Profession, A: One Woman's Journey In Physics Mary K Gaillard, 2015-06-10 In 1981 Mary K Gaillard became the first woman on the physics faculty at the University of California at Berkeley Her career as a theoretical physicist spanned the period from the inception in the late 1960s and early 1970s of what is now known as the Standard Model of particle physics and its experimental confirmation culminating with the discovery of the Higgs particle in 2012 A Singularly Unfeminine Profession recounts Gaillard's experiences as a woman in a very male dominated field while tracing the development of the Standard Model as she witnessed it and participated in it The generally nurturing environment of her childhood and college years as well as experiences as an undergraduate in particle physics laboratories and as a graduate student at Columbia University which cemented her passion for particle physics left her unprepared for the difficulties that she confronted as a second year graduate student in Paris and later at CERN another particle physics laboratory near Geneva Switzerland The development of the Standard Model as well as attempts to go beyond it and aspects of early universe physics are described through the lens of Gaillard's own work in a language written for a lay audience

The Captain and His Lady Ellen Randolph Weatherly, 2012 In the year of 1924 George N Randolph a US Army captain stationed at Camp Gaillard in the Panama Canal Zone sat at his desk and began writing his first love letter to Ruth Morrison a woman he had fallen in love with at first sight Being a military man he began expressing himself in a definite precise manner The recipient of his letter was the principal of the English Speaking School of Gatun in the Canal Zone She immediately replied to his letter in her own softer more descriptive manner Thus began their love story In The Captain's Lady the couple's daughter Ellen Randolph Weatherly shares the letters her parents penned to each other complete with all the essential elements necessary in a spellbinding love story The letters include commentaries involving historical events political elections pioneer history humorous happenings and life during the period of 1924 Compiled exactly as they were written the letters and accompanying photographs not only paint a picture of the times but also narrate the tale of an enduring love story
