Guided Tour of Artificial Intelligence Research Pierre Marquis, Odile Papini, Henri Prade, 2020-05-08 The purpose of this book is to provide an overview of AI research ranging from basic work to interfaces and applications with as much emphasis on results as on current issues. It is aimed at an audience of master students and Ph D students and can be of interest as well for researchers and engineers who want to know more about AI. The book is split into three volumes: the first volume brings together twenty three chapters dealing with the foundations of knowledge representation and the formalization of reasoning and learning; Volume 1: Knowledge representation, reasoning and learning; the second volume offers a view of AI in fourteen chapters from the side of the algorithms; Volume 2: AI Algorithms; the third volume, composed of sixteen chapters, describes the main interfaces and applications of AI. Volume 3: Interfaces and applications of AI. Implementing reasoning or decision making processes requires an appropriate representation of the pieces of information to be exploited. This first volume starts with a historical chapter sketching the slow emergence of building blocks of AI along centuries. Then the volume provides an organized overview of different logical, numerical or graphical representation formalisms able to handle incomplete information, rules having exceptions, probabilistic and possibilistic uncertainty and beyond, as well as taxonomies, time, space, preferences, norms, causality and even trust and emotions among agents. Different types of reasoning beyond classical deduction are surveyed, including nonmonotonic reasoning, belief revision, updating, information fusion, reasoning based on similarity, case based, interpolative or analogical, as well as reasoning about actions, reasoning about ontologies, description logics, argumentation and negotiation or persuasion between agents. Three chapters deal with decision making, be it multiple criteria, collective or under uncertainty. Two chapters cover statistical, computational learning and reinforcement learning. Other machine learning topics are covered in Volume 2. Chapters on diagnosis and supervision, validation and explanation and knowledge base acquisition complete the volume.

Multi-Winner Voting with Approval Preferences Martin

Lackner, Piotr Skowron, 2022-11-17. From fundamental concepts and results to recent advances in computational social choice, this open access book provides a thorough and in depth look at multi winner voting based on approval preferences. The main focus is on axiomatic analysis, algorithmic results and several applications that are relevant in artificial intelligence, computer science and elections of any kind. What is the best way to select a set of candidates for a shortlist for an executive committee or for product recommendations? Multi winner voting is the process of selecting a fixed size set of candidates based on the preferences expressed by the voters. A wide variety of decision processes in settings ranging from politics, parliamentary elections to the design of modern computer applications, collaborative filtering, dynamic Q/A platforms, diversity in search results etc. share the problem of identifying a representative subset of alternatives. The study of multi winner voting provides the principled analysis of this task. Approval based committee voting rules, in short ABC rules, are multi winner voting rules particularly suitable for practical use. Their usability is founded on the straightforward form in which the voters can express preferences: voters simply have to differentiate between approved and disapproved candidates. Proposals for ABC rules are numerous, some dating back to the late 19th century while others have been introduced only very recently. This book explains and discusses these rules highlighting their individual strengths and weaknesses With the help of this book the reader will be able to choose a suitable ABC voting rule in a principled fashion participate in and be up to date with the ongoing research on this topic Handbook of Computational Social Choice Felix Brandt,Vincent Conitzer,Ulle Endriss,Jérôme Lang,Ariel D.
