China's Evolving Military Strategy Joe McReynolds, 2017-01-10 Roughly once every generation a powerful highly influential organization within the Chinese People's Liberation Army releases a new edition of the Science of Military Strategy SMS a comprehensive and authoritative study which details the strategic approach that the Chinese military will take in the coming years in response to the threats and challenges facing China The recent release of a new edition of SMS signals the potential for dramatic shifts in the PLA's approach to a number of strategic questions but the book remains underutilized by many Western China analysts due to the lack of both an English translation and expert analysis to place these changes into context China's Evolving Military Strategy aims to bring knowledge of these important developments to a mass audience of China watchers policymakers and the broader foreign policy community by providing a sector by sector analysis of changes in the PLA's thinking and approach from the previous edition of SMS to the present Each chapter addresses the implications for a different portion of the Chinese military ranging from the air sea and space domains to cyberspace and electromagnetic warfare and each is written by one of the world's foremost experts on that subsection of China's military development China's Evolving Military Strategy will serve as the cornerstone reference for a generation to come on one of China's most important declarations of its military strategic goals and intentions China's Evolving

Military Strategy Jamestown Foundation, 2016 Planning for Protraction Iskander Rehman, 2023-11-09 As Sino US relations have deteriorated concerns have grown in Washington over its ability to defeat China in a major conflict A conflict between such peer competitors would likely become a protracted war of attrition drawing on all dimensions of national power but this reality has yet to receive a sufficient degree of analytical attention In this Adelphi book Iskander Rehman provides a historically informed and empirically grounded study of protracted great power war its core drivers and characteristics and an examination of the elements that have most often determined a competitor's long term strategic performance Final victory in a protracted conflict this book argues rests on a combination of three core factors a state's military effectiveness and adaptability its socio economic power and resiliency and the soundness of its alliance management and grand strategy A detailed analysis of the contemporary Sino US rivalry assesses how both parties might fare in the event of a protracted war while highlighting some of its key differentiating aspects most notably its nuclear and cyber dimensions

Evolving Military Strategy and Doctrine Alice Langley Hsieh, 1970 The document analyzes China's evolving military strategy and doctrine focuses on three main issues in China's military thinking the question of priorities in national security policy the degree to which Chinese leadership style in the military sphere is cautious or reckless and the intent of China's advanced weapons program. With a view to developing new insights into these issues, several recent crisis situations, trends in international politics and developments in China's military program are explored. The paper proceeds to suggest some major implications for China's military development and to project ways in which Peking might choose to use its evolving nuclear missile capability over the next decade.

Author M. Taylor Fravel, 2019-04-23

Active Defense What changes in China's modern military policy reveal about military organizations and strategy. Since the 1949 Communist Revolution, China has devised nine different military strategies which the People's Liberation Army (PLA) calls strategic guidelines. What accounts for these numerous changes? Active Defense offers the first systematic look at China's military strategy from the mid-twentieth century to today. Exploring the range and intensity of threats that China has faced, M. Taylor Fravel illuminates the nation's past and present military goals and how China sought to achieve them and offers a rich set of cases for deepening the study of change in military organizations. Drawing from diverse Chinese language sources including memoirs of leading generals, military histories and document collections that have become available only in the last two decades, Fravel shows why transformations in military strategy were pursued at certain times and not others. He focuses on the military strategies adopted in 1956, 1980 and 1993 when the PLA was attempting to wage war in a new kind of way to show that China has pursued major change in its strategic guidelines when there has been a significant shift in the conduct of warfare in the international system and when China's Communist Party has been united. Delving into the security threats China has faced over the last seven decades, Active Defense offers a detailed investigation into how and why states alter their defense policies.

China's Evolving Approach to "Integrated Strategic Deterrence" Michael S. Chase, Arthur Chan, 2016-04-07

Drawing on Chinese military writings, this report finds that China's strategic deterrence concepts are evolving in response to Beijing's changing assessment of its external security environment and a growing emphasis on protecting its emerging interests in space and cyberspace. China also is rapidly closing what was once a substantial gap between the People's Liberation Army's strategic weapons capabilities and its strategic deterrence concepts.

China's Military Modernization Richard D. Fisher, 2010

Fisher examines how China's People's Liberation Army (PLA) remains critical to the existence of the Chinese Communist government and looks at China's political and military actions designed to protect its expanded strategic interests in both the Asia-Pacific and Central to Near Asian regions.

Traditional Military Thinking and the Defensive Strategy of China Jijun Li, 1997

In an address given at the U.S. Army War College, the author, Vice President of the Academy of Military Science of the People's Republic of China, set the foundation for a future relationship between the two professional military education institutions In support of China's policies of reform and opening up the People's Liberation Army is actively seeking military to military relations with other nations particularly with the United States Aware of this historic juncture the author delivered his address in the spirit of increased Sino American dialogue and cooperation The speech is interesting for what it tells us not only about Chinese strategy but how the Chinese government views threats to its national security Active Defense - Explaining the Evolution of China's Military M. China: Military Modernisation and Strategy Monika Chansoria, 2011-11-01 China's strides towards the creation of a formidable military posture backed by strong economic growth demonstrate a resolve to assert its claim towards becoming an Asian superpower By opting to showcase its military prowess to the world the Chinese armed forces have signalled that they have come a long way from what was essentially a rustic and bucolic Red Army that waged a People's War six decades ago The modernisation programme undertaken by the People's Liberation Army PLA can be interpreted as the foundation of deterrence to attain the objectives of military strategy Today the Chinese armed forces are preparing to fight small scale high intensity regional combat and military operations in the future At the same time China seeks to deter or prevent their outbreak decisively through the possession of an adequate deterrent force and the determination to use that force Robust military modernisation of the PLA represents a contrasting facet to the tall claims made by China in so far as its peaceful rise campaign is concerned It is difficult to reconcile these rather opposing while equally reinforcing ideas As a consequence the entire debate on the impending China threat Zhongguo weixie theory has progressively gained significance within the Asian continent and beyond China's Military Strategy, 2015 Imagined Enemies John Wilson Lewis, Litai Xue, 2006-07-13 The fourth and final volume in a pioneering series on the Chinese military Imagined Enemies offers an unprecedented look at its history operational structure modernization and strategy Beginning with an examination of culture and thought in Part I the authors explore the transition away from Mao Zedong's revolutionary doctrine the conflict with Moscow and Beijing's preoccupation with Taiwanese separatism and preparations for war to thwart it Part II focuses on operational and policy decisions in the National Command Authority and subsequently in the People's Liberation Army Part III provides a detailed study of the Second Artillery China's strategic rocket forces The book concludes with the transformation of military strategy and shows how it is being tested in military exercises with Taiwan and the United States as imagined enemies
