Mobile Media Learning et al., Christopher Holden, 2015 This book is an inspirational message about what is possible and practical in the name of learning through mobile media We present stories from a diverse set of educators a microcosm of the landscape of mobile media learning Each author has found a way to create something new and beautiful in their own world And though their results are exceptional their surroundings are not Most are not experts in high technology nor highly equipped They get as far as they do by using what is at hand in part by making use of accessible free and open source software To provide both a deeper look into how these projects operate and a practical resource for those who want to join in this book addresses most of these tools individually as well Our detailed down to earth accounts will not only be legible to newcomers but refreshingly forthright to those anxious to better understand educational experiments connecting learning and mobile media Back cover

David Pantalony, Richard Lynn Kremer, Francis J. Manasek, 2005 Dartmouth College boasts one of the largest collections of old scientific instruments in North America they range from precision machines that represented the most advanced technology of their day to homemade devices produced by faculty and students This book examines approximately 150 items from this remarkable collection to offer insights into the teaching of science and the conduct of scientific research at a leading educational institution Though the instruments are beautifully photographed and presented the authors do not treat them as isolated objects rather they stress the historical and social circumstances of the instruments creation and use The instruments are grouped by function emphasizing their roles in the scientific enterprise and they are often presented with supporting documentation such as bills of sale that shed light on how they were produced and consumed The photographs often focus on details of their operation and parts giving a dynamic rather than static sense of the objects A substantial introductory essay places the collection in context while the descriptions of the instruments stress their design function and use This beautiful book showcases an extraordinary collection and situates the objects in terms of the prevailing scientific and educational practices of their day
