The Middle East has been the cradle of world civilization. It is the home of the two of the world's oldest civilizations -- the Nile Civilization and the Mesopotamian Civilization, known for the introduction of writing (the Hieroglyphics and the Cuneiform), record keeping, the codification of laws (the Code of Hammurabi), the concept of city-states and democratic governance, the concept of authenticity, weights and measures, and the schooling system, to name a few.
