Practising Phonics

at Home and Out and About

If your child is learning phonics at school, you might want to support them at home but feel unsure of what to do.

The right level for you depends on the knowledge and the right resources to help them. Don't worry that at the same stage the children you see at home are more confident than yours. The best level of support is always a good one. If you are unsure, ask your child's teacher for suggestions. They can help you decide on the appropriate support and the resources you need that will be a good fit for you.

If you can't see what you think is missing from what you have at home, you can also support your child with online resources. There are many free resources available. The Phonics UK site is a good one to look at. It has a lot of resources to help you.
