News-notes, 1992 Adapting to climate change in the tropical fruit industry: a technical guide for avocado producers and exporters Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2024-03-12 Climate change is impacting global food production systems making the challenge of feeding the world's growing population more difficult than ever before. The tropical fruit sector is particularly at risk from the negative impacts of climate change driven by rising temperatures, extreme weather events and associated challenges such as water stress and increased pests and diseases. This poses significant risks for the long term sustainability of production and trade of important tropical fruits including avocados. Recognizing these challenges the Responsible Fruits Project has developed this technical guide on climate change adaptation for the avocado export industry. The guide is for producers and exporters of avocado who are interested in learning more about climate change in the context of their own business systems. It was developed through a consultative process with avocado companies and producer organizations participating in the Responsible Fruits Project. The purpose of this technical guide is to: Provide up to date information on recent and predicted climate change effects and trends in key avocado producing and exporting countries; Identify climate change risks and impacts on the production and trade of avocado; Identify adaptation practices and recommendations that may help to address these risks; minimize negative impacts and build resilience; Share good practices adopted by companies to address specific climate related production risks in a sustainable manner; Identify gaps in information research and technical solutions needed to strengthen the availability and adoption of adaptation practices.

Resource Management in the Ecuadorian Andes: An Evaluation of CARE's PROMUSTA Program ,2019 In recent years development organizations have spent substantial resources on programs to reduce the problems associated with soil erosion Many programs have focused on the use of incentives to induce conservation and have maintained a top down approach to conservation Quite often this is ineffective and farmers abandon conservation measures once incentives are withdrawn In Ecuador CARE International has offered an alternative approach that embeds conservation in the agricultural system By offering agricultural diversification and intensification with a complementary program that enhances short term benefits of conservation CARE induces farmers to maintain sustainable practices Using data from a sample of participant and non participant Ecuadorian households we show the success of the CARE approach Participants in the CARE program are found to have high rates of adoption of conservation practices and to simultaneously change their agricultural system Results indicate that with a strong extension service and a menu of adaptable technologies conservation is enhanced when presented with complementary changes in agriculture Focus on Earth Science ,2001
