Network Centric Operations Case Study Air To Air Combat With And Without Link:

Network-centric Operations Case Study Daniel Gonzales,2005 Link 16 enables network centric operations NCO in ways that voice only communications cannot How does this increase in effectiveness translate into success in battle More than 12 000 sorties were flown in the Joint Tactical Information Distribution System Operations Special Project where Link 16 and voice only communications were evaluated Using NCO metrics the authors gauged improvements provided by Link 16 The almost threefold increase in effectiveness shows the merits of the Link 16 and NCO concepts The authors conclude that further studies should examine more complex missions and increase understanding of NCO concepts Network-Centric Operations Case Study: Air-to-Air Combat With and Without Link 16 ,2005 In the mid 1990s the U S Air Force at the request of Congress conducted the Joint Tactical Information Distribution System JTIDS Operational Special Project In this exercise the capabilities of F 15 air superiority aircraft equipped with voice only communications were compared with F 15s equipped with voice and JTIDS Link 16 data link communications in tactical air to air combat More than 12 000 sorties were flown in this special project Blue offensive counterair packages composed of these F 15s ranged in size from two to eight aircraft In all cases the packages were controlled and cued by Airborne Warning and Control System AWACS aircraft The size of the engagements ranged from two Blue fighters on two Red fighters to eight Blue fighters on 16 Red fighters Engagements occurred during daylight and night conditions The primary independent variable was whether the Blue F 15s were equipped with the Link 16 data link or with conventional voice communications only The capability of the Red aircraft remained consistent during the project On average Blue offensive counterair packages equipped with Link 16 achieved a two and a half times improvement in kill ratio Red aircraft to Blue aircraft destroyed both during the day and at night However it was unclear how and why this significant improvement in force effectiveness arose The aim of this study is to understand whether this increase in combat effectiveness stemmed from the network centric capabilities of F 15 aircraft equipped with Link 16 and fighter pilots able to effectively use data link communications Networked Forces in Stability Operations Daniel Gonzales,John Hollywood,Jerry M. Sollinger,James McFadden,John DeJarnette,2007-10-31 Compares three units that conducted stability operations in the same area in northern Iraq the 101st Airborne Division which had only limited digital communications the 3 2 Stryker brigade combat team SBCT and the 1 25 SBCT both equipped with digital networks and finds that leadership training and tactics and procedures are just as important as networking capabilities for improving mission effectiveness in stability operations Cyberpower and National Security Franklin D. Kramer,Stuart H. Starr,Larry K. Wentz,2009 This book creates a framework for understanding and using cyberpower in support of national security Cyberspace and cyberpower are now critical elements of international security United States needs a national policy which employs cyberpower to support its national security interests The Virtual Battlefield Christian Czosseck,Kenneth Geers,2009 All political and military conflicts now have a cyber dimension the size and impact of which are difficult to predict

Internet enabled propaganda espionage and attacks on critical infrastructure can target decision makers weapons systems and citizens in general during times of peace or war Traditional threats to national security now have a digital delivery mechanism which would increase the speed diffusion and power of an attack There have been no true cyber wars to date but cyber battles of great consequence are easy to find This book is divided into two sections Strategic viewpoints and Technical challenges solutions and highlights the growing connection between computer security and national security P 4 of cover

Unmanned Combat Air Systems in Future Warfare C. Wills, 2016-04-29 Control of the air is the foundation for all conventional military operations against an adversary with an air defence capability In future warfare will it be possible for Unmanned Combat Air Systems to undertake the tasks and accept most of the risks that until now have been the lot of military aviators Cyber Infrastructure Protection Tarek Nazir Saadawi, Louis Jordan (Jr), Vincent Boudreau, 2013 Increased reliance on the Internet and other networked systems raise the risks of cyber attacks that could harm our nation s cyber infrastructure The cyber infrastructure encompasses a number of sectors including the nation s mass transit and other transportation systems banking and financial systems factories energy systems and the electric power grid and telecommunications which increasingly rely on a complex array of computer networks including the public Internet However many of these systems and networks were not built and designed with security in mind Therefore our cyber infrastructure contains many holes risks and vulnerabilities that may enable an attacker to cause damage or disrupt cyber infrastructure operations Threats to cyber infrastructure safety and security come from hackers terrorists criminal groups and sophisticated organized crime groups even nation states and foreign intelligence services conduct cyber warfare Cyber attackers can introduce new viruses worms and bots capable of defeating many of our efforts Costs to the economy from these threats are huge and increasing Government business and academia must therefore work together to understand the threat and develop various modes of fighting cyber attacks and to establish and enhance a framework to assess the vulnerability of our cyber infrastructure and provide strategic policy directions for the protection of such an infrastructure This book addresses such questions as How serious is the cyber threat What technical and policy based approaches are best suited to securing telecommunications networks and information systems infrastructure security What role will government and the private sector play in homeland defense against cyber attacks on critical civilian infrastructure financial and logistical systems What legal impediments exist concerning efforts to defend the nation against cyber attacks especially in preventive preemptive and retaliatory actions Cyber Infrastructure Protection: Volume II (Enlarged Edition) U.S. Army War College, Strategic Studies Institute, 2013-05-17 Increased reliance on the Internet and other networked systems raise the risks of cyber attacks that could harm our nation s cyber infrastructure The cyber infrastructure encompasses a number of sectors including the nation s mass transit and other transportation systems banking and financial systems factories energy systems and the electric power grid and telecommunications which increasingly rely on a complex array of computer networks including the public Internet. However, many of these systems and networks were not built and designed with security in mind. Therefore, our cyber infrastructure contains many holes, risks, and vulnerabilities that may enable an attacker to cause damage or disrupt cyber infrastructure operations. Threats to cyber infrastructure safety and security come from hackers, terrorists, criminal groups, and sophisticated organized crime groups, even nation states and foreign intelligence services conduct cyber warfare.

Cyber Infrastructure Protection Tarek Nazir Saadawi, Louis Jordan (Jr.), 2011. Provides an integrated view and a comprehensive framework of the various issues relating to cyber infrastructure protection. It provides the foundation for long-term policy development, a roadmap for cyber security, and an analysis of technology challenges that impede cyber infrastructure protection. The book is divided into three main parts. Part I deals with strategy and policy issues related to cyber security. It provides a theory of cyber power, a discussion of Internet survivability, as well as large-scale data breaches and the role of cyber power in humanitarian assistance. Part II covers social and legal aspects of cyber infrastructure protection and it provides discussions concerning the attack dynamics of politically and religiously motivated hackers. Part III discusses the technical aspects of cyber infrastructure protection, including the resilience of data centers, intrusion detection, and a strong focus on IP networks.

Network Science National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Army Science and Technology, Committee on Network Science for Future Army Applications, 2005-12-15. The military is currently attempting to develop itself into a force capable of network-centric operations. While this effort has highlighted the military's dependence on interacting networks, it has also shown that there is a huge gap between what we need to know about networks and our fundamental knowledge about network behavior. This gap makes the military vision of NCO problematic. To help address this problem, the Army asked the NRC to find out whether identifying and funding a new field of network science could help close this gap. This report presents an examination of networks and the military, an analysis of the promise, content, and challenges of network science, and an assessment of approaches to creating value from network science.
