The "world's state of the art speed metal band" ~~'s club daze~~

Around 1982 the San Francisco Bay Area was the place to be if you liked metal. Bill Hale was one of the lucky few, armed with a camera and present at many of the early gigs by bands who went on to be world-beaters. Metallica are the obvious Bay Area graduates, despite their roots in southern California, and Megadeth — who followed in Tallica's footsteps for decades, as you'll know if you've read this far — were SF immigrants in the same manner.

Here, Hale tracks Dave Mustaine's band from 1985-86 and into the 90s, mostly with live and backstage shots. Text comes from bassist David Ellefson, writers Bob Nalbandian and Tom Trakas, and many others — including Mustaine himself, who supplies the foreword. It's a gripping ride: you'll be amazed at how young and naïve the bandmembers look after all these years. Guitarists extraordinaire Chris Poland and Marty Friedman appear, looking by turns frazzled, frenzied and a tad overdressed (come on, it was the 80s); and the late drummer Gar Samuelson, who astounded concertgoers at the time with his jazz-influenced chops, is depicted in detail for the first time. Rare pics of Mike Albert, who toured with Megadeth after Poland was fired for his heroin abuse, make for an essential souvenir of a lost era for any fan of zero-budget but high-octane metal. the original book Sample Book Insights 1 I was often absent from school and as a result became something of a phantom to my classmates and teachers I was born in 1961 in La Mesa California My parents divorced when I was four years old and my father became some sort of shadowy figure 2 I have memories of a benign man smoking a pipe reading the newspaper and calling me over to kiss him good night I know that people under the influence are capable of unspeakably bad behavior but I choose to believe that my father was not an evil man 3 I grew up with the fear of being sent to live with my father if I misbehaved My father was a monster but he was also a weapon used against me by my mother to keep me in line I had no fear because I d grown accustomed to being knocked around in school 4 I was a lonely kid and I made up my own universe to escape into I played with a lot of plastic models and my world was the safest place I could find I was a survivor and I endured some shit
