It offers an inside look into topics such as revenue sharing, competitive balance, circumvention of league rules, player free agency, player social activism, player discipline, and the ethical and legal issues around the use of wearable biometric tracking systems to collect player data. An essential read for sports business industry practitioners and students alike, this is fascinating reading for anybody with an interest in sport business, sport law, or labor relations. It is also a valuable resource for anyone who wants to increase their understanding of the business and financial operations of professional sports leagues and teams, player contracts and salaries, and the role and authority of professional sports league commissioners.

The Uses and Abuses of Weaponized Interdependence Daniel W. Drezner, Henry Farrell, Abraham L. Newman, 2021-03-02. How globalized information networks can be used for strategic advantage. Until recently, globalization was viewed on balance as an inherently good thing that would benefit people and societies nearly everywhere. Now there is growing concern that some countries will use their position in globalized networks to gain undue influence over other societies through their dominance of information and financial networks, a concept known as weaponized interdependence. In exploring the conditions under which China

Russia and the United States might be expected to weaponize control of information and manipulate the global economy the contributors to this volume challenge scholars and practitioners to think differently about foreign economic policy national security and statecraft for the twenty first century The book addresses such questions as What areas of the global economy are most vulnerable to unilateral control of information and financial networks How sustainable is the use of weaponized interdependence What are the possible responses from targeted actors And how sustainable is the open global economy if weaponized interdependence becomes a default tool for managing international relations
