Higher Education in Transition Brian L. Fife, Joseph Losco, 1999-12-30 This book explores the state of higher education at century's end and the challenges awaiting it in the next millennium. It assesses changes in the student population, the role of faculty, spending patterns, government support, the role of intercollegiate athletics, the nature of presidential leadership and the impact of technological change. This volume is a call to educators, parents and taxpayers alike to enter into a dialogue about the future directions of higher education that they are willing to support. Because in the last few decades, higher education has attempted to extend both its reach and scope despite the finite nature of resources at its disposal, the new millennium will mark a time when colleges and universities must clearly delimit and prioritize their goals. This volume is a call to educators, parents and taxpayers alike to enter into a dialogue about the future directions of higher education that they are willing to support. The role of higher education in a high-tech, interdependent world economy has never been more important than it is today. Yet never before has its future been so cloudy. Changes in the nature of the student population, tuition increases that consistently outpace the cost of living, increasing conflict between faculty and administration, personnel attacks on tenure, the professionalization of collegiate sports and political attacks and threats to state funding are all transforming an institution in ways that are as yet uncertain at best. This volume reviews the source and impact of change on today's colleges and universities. Leading scholars contribute chapters on specific aspects of collegiate life and the way internal and external forces are changing the scope and function of higher education.

Perfect Codes And Related Structures Tuvi Etzion, 2022-03-14 In this monograph we develop the theory of one of the most fascinating topics in coding theory namely perfect codes and related structures Perfect codes are considered to be the most beautiful structure in coding theory at least from the mathematical side These codes are the largest ones with their given parameters The book develops the theory of these codes in various metrics Hamming Johnson Lee Grassmann as well as in other spaces and metrics It also covers other related structures such as diameter perfect codes quasi perfect codes mixed codes tilings combinatorial designs and more The goal is to give the aspects of all these codes to derive bounds on their sizes and present various constructions for these codes The intention is to offer a different perspective for the area of perfect codes For example in many chapters there is a section devoted to diameter perfect codes In these codes anticodes are used instead of balls and these anticodes are related to intersecting families an area that is part of extremal combinatorics This is one example that shows how we direct our exposition in this book to both researchers in coding theory and mathematicians interested in combinatorics and extremal combinatorics New perspectives for MDS codes different from the classic ones which lead to new directions of research on these codes are another example of how this book may appeal to both researchers in coding theory and mathematicians The book can also be used as a textbook either on basic course in combinatorial coding theory or as an advance course in combinatorial coding theory
