Multiwavelength Mapping of Galaxy Formation and Evolution Alvio Renzini, Ralf Bender, 2005-05-23 The possibilities of astronomical observation have dramatically increased over the last decade Major satellites like the Hubble Space Telescope Chandra and XMM Newton are complemented by numerous large ground based observatories from 8m 10m optical telescopes to sub mm and radio facilities As a result observational astronomy has access to virtually the whole electromagnetic spectrum of galaxies even at high redshifts Theoretical models of galaxy formation and cosmological evolution now face a serious challenge to match the plethora of observational data In October 2003 over 170 astronomers from 15 countries met for a 4 day workshop to extensively illustrate and discuss all major observational projects and ongoing theoretical efforts to model galaxy formation and evolution This volume contains the complete proceedings of this meeting and is therefore a unique and timely overview of the current state of research in this rapidly evolving field

The Epoch of Galaxy Formation Carlos S. Frenk, Richard S. Ellis, T. Shanks, Alan F. Heavens, John A. Peacock, 2012-12-06 Scientists in the late twentieth century are not the first to view galaxy formation as a phenomenon worthy of explanation in terms of the known laws of physics Already in 1754 Kant regarded the problem as essentially solved In his Universal Natural History and Theory of the Universe he wrote If in the immeasurable space in which all the suns of the Milky Way have formed themselves we assume a point around which through some cause or other the first formation of nature out of chaos began there the largest mass and a body of extraordinary attraction will have arisen which has thereby become capable of compelling all the systems in the process of being formed within an enormous sphere around it to fall towards itself as their centre and to build up a system around it on the great scale Observation puts this conjecture almost beyond doubt More than 200 years later a similar note of confidence was voiced by Zel'dovich at an IAU symposium held in Tallin in 1911 Extrapolating to the next symposium somewhere in the early eighties one can be pretty sure that the question of the formation of galaxies and clusters will be solved in the next few years Perhaps few astronomers today would share Kant's near certainty or feel that Zel'dovich's prophecy has been fulfilled Many however will sympathize with the optimistic outlook of these two statements
