Reading to Learn for ELs Ana Taboada Barber, 2016 Gaining knowledge from informational texts is an essential academic skill Yet for too many English Learners this skill is not developed sufficiently and as they move from elementary into middle school the reading gap becomes a knowledge gap This doesn't have to happen researcher Ana Taboada Barber explains if we support EL's reading of informational texts by pairing motivation practices with explicit reading comprehension instruction Taboada Barber shows us that When we make motivation part of reading instruction we show ELs that education is about identity and agency we acknowledge who they are right now and invite them to grow through and by reading The comprehension strategies and motivational practices discussed in this book help us identify tools to use with informational texts that foster curiosity rather than frustration In Reading to Learn for ELs Taboada Barber provides models of her instructional framework for reading informational texts so that reading teachers content area teachers and ESL teachers alike can take on the work of teaching English Learners how to succeed and gain knowledge through reading informational texts Motivating Reading and Writing in Diverse Classrooms Lesley Mandel Morrow,1996 An 8 month study tracked 166 second graders of various ethnic backgrounds in an urban setting while they were being motivated to read through a literature based reading and writing program The classrooms in which the research was conducted used basal readers and did not have well designed literacy centers Collaboration was not an integral part of reading instruction During the research project some of these classrooms were converted into experimental classrooms Basal based reading instruction was supplemented with literature based instruction literacy centers were created and students were given opportunities for collaborative literacy activities Students were randomly selected for the experimental classrooms the remaining classrooms were used as controls On several quantitative measures of comprehension students in the experimental classrooms performed significantly better than the others Qualitative data were also collected interviews observations to measure attitudes toward traditional and experimental reading instruction to determine the types of literacy activities students in experimental rooms participated in and to identify the interactive behaviors that motivate reading and writing Findings suggest that a good case can be made for the inclusion of literature and collaborative activities in reading instruction and that a balanced approach to reading instruction is superior to one based solely on the use of basal readers Contains 6 tables of data one figure and 143 references appendixes list storybooks used for testing and children s literature references NKA Reading Achievement and Motivation in Boys and Girls Pelusa Orellana García,Paula Baldwin Lind,2018-05-02 This volume links theoretical and instructional approaches on how reading is motivated and assessed and examines the interrelationship between reading motivation and achievement among boys and girls in culturally and geographically different settings Much of the research on children s reading has focused on cognitive processes however reading is an activity that also requires interest and motivation These attitudes are generally defined as readers affect toward reading and their consequence is that children with more positive attitudes are more motivated to read Taking into account the variability that exists within the notion of gender and age this volume aims to examine and scrutinize previous research on the topic as well as test theories on how the different dimensions of reading motivation vary with gender in relation to cultural issues motivational constructs such as engagement and classroom climate the role of emotions interests and attitudes towards reading among others The book will be of interest to researchers educators graduate students and other professionals working in the area of literacy reading motivation reading achievement and gender differences
