Anthropologists, Indigenous Scholars and the Research Endeavour Joy Hendry,Laara Fitznor,2012-11-27 This collection offers the fruits of a stimulating workshop that sought to bridge the fraught relationship which sometimes continues between anthropologists and indigenous native aboriginal scholars despite areas of overlapping interest. Participants from around the world share their views and opinions on subjects ranging from ideas for reconciliation the question of what might constitute a universal science indigenous heritage postcolonial museology the boundaries of the term indigeneity different senses as ways of knowing and the very issue of writing as a method of dissemination that divides and excludes readers from different backgrounds. This book represents a landmark step in the process of replacing bridges with more equal patterns of intercultural cooperation and communication.

Modern Peoplehood John Lie, 2011-04 A most impressive achievement by an extraordinarily intelligent courageous and that goes without saying well read mind. The scope of this work is enormous it provides no less than a comprehensive historically grounded theory of modern peoplehood which is Lie's felicitous umbrella term for everything that goes under the names race ethnicity and nationality. Christian Joppke American Journal of Sociology. Lie's objective is to treat a series of large topics that he sees as related but that are usually treated separately: the social construction of identities the origins and nature of modern nationalism the explanation of genocide and racism. These multiple themes are for him aspects of something he calls modern peoplehood. His mode of demonstration is to review all the alternative explanations for each phenomenon and to show why each successively is inadequate. His own theses are controversial but he makes a strong case for them. This book should renew debate.
