China and Human Rights in North Korea Baogang He, David Hundt, Chengxin Pan, 2021-10-31 By exploring the China factor in the North Korean human rights debate this book evaluates the advantages and disadvantages of applying the Chinese development based approach to human rights in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK). The contributors to this book treat the relevance of the Chinese experience to the DPRK seriously and evaluate how it might apply to easing North Korean human rights issues. They engage with the debate about the relevance of the developmental or development-based approach to North Korea. In doing so, they problematise, scrutinise and contextualise the development-based approach in Northeast Asia, including China, and examine different responses to the developmental approach and the influence of domestic politics on these responses. A valuable contribution to discussions on possible ways forward for human rights in North Korea and an insightful critique of the Northeast Asian development model more broadly. Geopolitical Change and the Antarctic Treaty System Shirley V.

Scott, Tim; Stephens, Jeffrey; McGee, 2024-12-27. This book explores how geopolitical tensions have shaped the Antarctic Treaty System (ATS) and offers insights into managing future challenges. The ATS, established with the 1959 Antarctic Treaty during the Cold War, has been a successful model of international governance ensuring Antarctica's peaceful use and environmental protection. However, the ATS now faces new pressures, including an expanded membership of 57 states, increased economic activities such as tourism, fishing, and bio-prospecting, and the impacts of climate change. These factors are exacerbating geopolitical tensions that could challenge the stability of the ATS. The book examines key moments in the history of the ATS to understand how past tensions were managed and what lessons can be drawn for the future. The volume covers the creation of the CCAMLR marine conservation treaty in the late 1970s/1980s, the developing world's opposition to the ATS in United Nations debates during the 1980s/1990s, the shift from permitting Antarctic mining to establishing the Madrid Protocol on Environmental Protection in the early 1990s, the formation of the International Association of Antarctic Tourism Operators, the management of Illegal Unregulated and Unreported (IUU) fishing in the 2000s, and the proposals for marine protected areas under the CCAMLR Convention in recent years. Several contributions also draw on critical and regional perspectives to make sense of geopolitical pressures on Antarctic governance and how they might play out over the years and decades ahead. Through its attention both to critical turning points in the history of the ATS and a broad range of conceptual approaches, the book provides an authoritative assessment of the ATS's capacity to address emerging geopolitical stresses and provides strategies for future governance. It is a timely resource for understanding the evolving dynamics in Antarctica and ensuring the region remains a zone of peace and scientific collaboration. This book is a companion volume to McGee, Edmiston, and Haward (2022) The Future of Antarctica: Scenarios from Classical Geopolitics in the Springer Polar Sciences Series. Intelligence and International Conflict in Cyberspace Fabio Cristiano, Dennis Broeders, François Delerue, Frédéric Douzet, Aude Géry, 2023-05-11. This edited volume explores how artificial intelligence (AI) is transforming international conflict in cyberspace. Over the past three decades, cyberspace developed into a crucial frontier and issue of international conflict. However, scholarly work on the relationship between AI and conflict in cyberspace has been produced along somewhat rigid disciplinary boundaries and an even more rigid sociotechnical divide wherein technical and social scholarship are seldomly brought into a conversation This is the first volume to address these themes through a comprehensive and cross disciplinary approach With the intent of exploring the question what is at stake with the use of automation in international conflict in cyberspace through AI the chapters in the volume focus on three broad themes namely 1 technical and operational 2 strategic and geopolitical and 3 normative and legal These also constitute the three parts in which the chapters of this volume are organised although these thematic sections should not be considered as an analytical or a disciplinary demarcation This book will be of much interest to students of cyber conflict AI security studies and International Relations The Open Access version of this book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Gender and Political Violence Candice D. Ortals, Lori M. Poloni-Staudinger, 2018-03-09 This book examines the role of gender in political conflicts worldwide specifically the intersection between gender and terrorism Political violence has historically been viewed as a male domain with men considered the perpetrators of violence and power and women as victims without power Whereas men and masculinity are associated with war and aggression women and femininity conjure up socially constructed images of passivity and peace This distinction of men as aggressors and women as passive victims denies women their voice and agency This book investigates how women cope with and influence violent politics and is both a descriptive and analytical attempt to describe in what ways women are present or absent in political contexts involving political violence and how they deal with gender assumptions express gender identities and frame their actions regarding political violence encountered in their lives The book looks to reach beyond the notion of women as victims of terrorism or genocide without agency and to recognize the gendered nature of political conflicts and how women respond to violence This book will be of interest to advanced undergraduate and graduate students in political science sociology cultural studies and gender studies academics in terrorism studies and gender studies government officials NGOs and professionals working in areas of violent conflict
