Why Customers Would Rather Have a Smartphone than a Car Cor Molenaar, 2016-03-03 Why Customers Would Rather Have a Smartphone than a Car explores some of the fundamental changes in consumer behaviour Why do we buy less in shops and more on the internet Why do we spend more on gadgets smartphones and apps and not more on food holidays or clothing Why do most business people only look at symptoms and not the causes of changing customer behaviour The new generation buys differently from the baby boomers they have different priorities and preferences The internet has changed us in the way we think act and communicate Whilst many retailers now understand the need for change few of them have established convincing or sustainable models for the future Cor Molenaar argues that by understanding the drivers behind these new consumer behaviours retailers can identify the opportunities this represents and adapt their offering accordingly The kind of relationship retailing he advocates involves the way the retailer interacts with their customer the new environment that they need to sustain along with their ability to relate customer data technology and new services The author interweaves examples from traditional and virtual retailing with his research on consumer psychology and buying behaviour to offer a sophisticated and at times challenging guide for all those involved in retailing as well as those responsible for planning and designing social and retail space

Rethinking Retail Martin Block, Frank Mulhern, Larry DeGaris, Don Schultz, 2025-07-02 Retailing has changed rapidly in recent years with the pandemic accelerating the long term growth of e commerce Drawing on a unique data set drawn from hundreds of thousands of interviews over almost two decades this book takes a close look at changes in consumers shopping preferences behaviors and influences Across a range of topics the authors argue that the rise of e commerce has coincided with a decline in consumer preferences what people buy and where they buy it This presents challenges for both retailers and manufacturers The authors propose that the answer lies with consumers A focus on consumers is fundamental to designing effective marketing strategies and campaigns However retailers and brands often have different perspectives about consumers This book bridges that gap The broad scope of topics and longitudinal data give retailers and brand marketers a roadmap for building and maintaining consumer preference in a rapidly changing and challenging environment

Multisensory in Stationary Retail Gunnar Mau, Markus Schweizer, Christoph Oriet, 2023-02-07 This book describes how an optimal store design can contribute to the well being of the customer and to differentiation from online retail From an academic and practical perspective with contributions from renowned academics and companies it shows how a coherent store design can be created in harmony with the retail brand The central challenge here is the conscious orchestration of the diverse sensory stimuli How can the many sources of stimuli be controlled Which shelf shape goes with which light colour and sound Dealing with the variety of stimuli in a store environment can quickly become complex and incongruence can have a decisive negative impact on the well being of customers A customer centric store environment therefore focuses on the well being of people Renowned scientists and traders show the state of the science on these issues and give valuable suggestions for the trade With best practice examples and valuable suggestions for practical implementation THE THREE

Luc Boltanski, Arnaud Esquerre, 2020-04-22 This book offers a major new account of modern capitalism and of the ways in which value and wealth are created today Boltanski and Esquerre argue that capitalism in the West has recently undergone a fundamental transformation characterized by de industrialization on the one hand and on the other by the increased exploitation of certain resources that while not entirely new have taken on unprecedented importance It is this new form of exploitation that has given rise to what they call the enrichment economy The enrichment economy is based less on the production of new objects and more on the enrichment of things and places that already exist It has grown out of a combination of many different activities and phenomena all of which involve in their varying ways the exploitation of the past The enrichment economy draws upon the trade in things that are intended above all for the wealthy thus providing a supplementary source of enrichment for the wealthy people who deal in these things and exacerbating income inequality As opportunities to profit from the exploitation of industrial labour began to diminish capitalism shifted its focus to expand the range of things that could be exploited This gave rise to a plurality of different forms for making things valuable valuing objects in terms of their properties is only one such form The form that plays a central role in the enrichment economy is what the authors call the collection form which values objects based on the gap they fill in a collection This valuation process relies on the creation of narratives which enrich commodities This wide ranging and highly original work makes a major contribution to our understanding of contemporary societies and of how capitalism is changing today It will be of great value to students and scholars in sociology political economy and cultural studies as well as to anyone interested in the social and economic transformations shaping our world
