HISPANIC HERITAGE MONTH

Every year, from September 15 to October 15, people in the United States celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month. This special month honors the histories, cultures, and contributions of people whose families come from Spain, Mexico, the Caribbean, and Central and South America. Students, teachers, families, and communities join together to learn about and celebrate Hispanic traditions and leaders.

Beginnings of the Celebration

The celebration began in 1968, when President Lyndon B. Johnson signed a law to create Hispanic Heritage Week. The idea was to set aside time for Americans to recognize the achievements and culture of Hispanic people in the United States. In 1988, twenty years later, President Ronald Reagan expanded the celebration from one week to a full month. Since then, Hispanic Heritage Month has been celebrated every year.

It Starts on September 15

Hispanic Heritage Month begins on September 15 for a very special reason. On that date in 1821, five countries in Central America—Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua—declared their independence from Spain. The very next day, Mexico declared its independence, followed by Chile on September 18. Because of these historic anniversaries, mid-September is the best time to start the celebration.

How It's Celebrated

Hispanic Heritage Month is celebrated in many different ways. Schools hold assemblies and projects about famous Hispanic people, like Frida Kahlo, Sonia Sotomayor, or Dolores Huerta. Families enjoy traditional music, dancing, and food from different Hispanic cultures. Many schools set up displays to celebrate by
