Social Networks - Blessing Or Curse? Ruben Picard, 2011-05-09 Facharbeit Schule aus dem Jahr 2011 im Fachbereich Didaktik für das Fach Englisch Erörterungen und Aufsätze Note 2,0 Städt. Heinrich Heine Gymnasium Mettmann Sprache Deutsch Abstract In the past few years a great number of social networks have appeared on the internet Though the term social network seems to be something new something associated with the world wide web and new technologies social networks have existed ever since men have Any interacting group of people can be considered a social network and is defined by the relationships between the individuals That makes it really interesting to find a system that was part of our lives from the cradle of humankind being faced with such a young invention called the internet What they all have in common is that they try to connect people by providing a platform meant to help users communicate in the most convenient and entertaining way possible or by providing a matchless network service that specialises in a particular area e.g. music or news I decided to write a research paper about social networks on the internet because I could hardly distinguish whether my own use of such services is either beneficial or reprehensible These days new services on the internet that promise to be very entertaining or apparently have a high potential to improve or simplify the way we work and communicate seem to be very attractive to a wide range of internet users While some people are quite sceptical about online services like social networks others tend to use them without even considering any potential risks Are they just blinded by the revolutionary possibilities based on the Web 2.0 or do we actually not have anything to fear The social network Facebook will serve as my basic example for the analysis of social networks because it is the most used and thereby most discussed social network on the world wide web its structure also generally represents other similar networks These social networks are surprisingly entertaining especially for younger people But can we trust a completely new way of communication Considering that almost all social networks are completely free the question comes up how they can be financed Do social networks help us organise our lives by providing virtual groups calendars and event managers Will these groups even be able to represent political interests And what about the lack of privacy social networks possibly promote Among other aspects I want to deal with the above mentioned questions by analysing the way social networks operate and weighing the benefits and disadvantages of social networks on the internet

How to Do Everything: Facebook Applications Jesse Feiler, 2008-03-03 A start to finish guide to developing unique apps that run on Facebook Platform

Digital Religion, Social Media, and Culture Pauline Hope Cheong, 2012 This anthology the first of its kind in eight years collects some of the best and most current research and reflection on the complex interactions between religion and computer mediated communication CMC The contributions cohere around the central question how will core religious understandings of identity community and authority shape and be re shaped by the communicative possibilities of Web 2.0 The authors gathered here address these questions in three distinct ways through contemporary empirical research on how diverse traditions across the globe seek to take up the technologies and affordances of contemporary CMC through investigations that place these contemporary developments in larger historical and theological contexts and through careful reflection on the theoretical dimensions of research on religion and CMC In their introductory and concluding essays the editors uncover and articulate the larger intersections and patterns suggested by individual chapters including trajectories for future research

Using Emerging Technologies to Enhance Student Engagement Reynol Junco, Dianne M. Timm, 2008 Today's college students have never known a time when personal computers did not exist They attended K-12 schools where most of their classrooms were equipped with computers Information technology has always been part of their learning process not to mention the impact it has had on the development of their friendships research and writing skills shopping and choice of college or university to attend They expect that institutions of higher education will respond to their inquiries without delay much in the same way that customer service is handled on the Web Student expectations are driving the creation of live Web chats in house social networking sites university wiki and shared virtual spaces Unfortunately higher education faculty and staff in general and student affairs professionals in particular are behind the curve in their use of information technology Student affairs professionals are only starting to become aware that they should learn about the technologies that students have already integrated into their lives It is imperative that student affairs professions understand these technologies and learn how to implement them to enhance student learning build a sense of community increase student engagement facilitate communication This volume examines recent research on how information technology is affecting college student development and explores ways in which institutions are responding to increased demands for using emerging technology in supporting students This is the 124th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Student Services an indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs deans of students student counselors and other student services professionals Each issue of New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development emotional social physical and intellectual
