Rural and Regional Futures Anthony Hogan, Michelle Young, 2014-09-19 Agriculture, mining and related rural industries have been central to the development of Australia's economy. This book details the role that the Australian Government has played in the making of rural and regional Australia, particularly since World War II. The book reviews these policies and evaluates them with regards to the commitments undertaken by the Government to contribute towards vibrant rural communities. Policy areas addressed include agriculture, water, education, welfare and population, natural resource management, resource extraction, Indigenous and affairs, localism, rural research and regional innovation, Youth Affairs and the devolution of regional governance. Overall, two distinct policy strategies can be observed: one wherein the government saw its role as part of the entrepreneurial state and a sector wherein government has increasingly taken itself out of industry development, leaving this role to the market. Having considered these strategies and their impacts, the book concludes that policy over the past 40 years has not, in fact, contributed to a more vibrant, prosperous rural and regional Australia. Rural and Regional Futures concludes with several chapters looking to the future. One chapter explores what the role of the state can be within a social market economy, while the final chapter gives consideration to the initial steps rural communities will need to take to begin the process of revitalisation. While these materials present as a case study of developments in Australia, the policy shift from the Government as entrepreneur to a focus on markets is an international one and, as such, the insights offered by this book will have wide appeal.

Remote Workforce Training: Effective Technologies and Strategies Hai-Jew, Shalin, 2014-02-28 Lifelong learning can occur both in and out of the classroom, but the most valuable instruction takes place on the job. Remote Workforce Training: Effective Technologies and Strategies investigates methods, techniques and systems used in employee training programs. The tools and technologies surveyed within these pages will help employers take their workers beyond the transient skill sets offered by university degrees and into a constant state of learning and practice that will enhance both their productivity and technical abilities on a regular basis. In particular, the knowledge offered by this reference book will be of use to educators and students as well as managers, leaders, administrators and personnel.

Getting Skills Right: Training Supply for the Green and AI Transitions Equipping Workers with the Right Skills OECD, 2024-12-11 Adult learning systems are being called upon to prepare workers for major labour market shifts, including the green transition and the rise of artificial intelligence (AI) in the workplace. While initial education is important, upskilling and reskilling the existing workforce is essential to help individuals and businesses adapt and prepare for these transitions. Policy makers face the challenge of ensuring training is both relevant and inclusive, yet there is limited understanding of whether current training supply is sufficient to meet current and future skill needs Most research focuses on the demand for skills with little insight into the supply To fill this gap this report uses evidence from new OECD questionnaires and an analysis of training catalogues to evaluate whether current training supply aligns with the skills needed for the green and AI transitions It also provides insight into the accessibility and flexibility of training efforts to guide policy makers in their efforts to develop more effective inclusive training strategies OECD Reviews of Vocational Education and Training Building Future-Ready Vocational Education and Training Systems OECD,2023-07-31 A changing world of work brings the importance of Vocational Education and Training VET to the forefront as it has the ability to develop the skills that are needed in today s labour markets and societies At the same time structural changes highlight the need to re engineer certain parts of VET systems in some countries to make them more resilient and ensure they can make the most of the opportunities ongoing changes present Young Action for the Future United Nations Environment Programme,1997 Young people are more informed aware than ever about the environmental challenges facing us in the late twentieth century This book demonstrates how young people are empowering themselves to get involved at the national international level having an impact on policies decision making processes ensuring that their voices views are heard Young Action For The Future also presents a selection of projects programmes showing the variety of approaches being taken by young people youth groups around the world the range of issues they have chosen to confront American Sign Language For Dummies with Online Videos Adan R.
