Merriman,2024-04-25 This book offers a detailed case study of the transfer of ownership to Nigeria in November 2022 of the 72 artworks in the Horniman s collections looted by the British from Benin City in 1897 as an occasion to explore the current state of the issue of restitution of cultural objects It argues that we are at a tipping point where decades of debate but little action about restitution is now changing to a period when at least the most egregious examples of colonial looting are being addressed It summarises the key issues involved in these returns outlines the processes and procedures undertaken by the Horniman and offers recommendations and reflections for the future The Practice of Nursing Research Susan K.

Grove,Nancy Burns (Ph. D.),Jennifer Gray,2012-01-01 Nancy Burns is first named author on previous edition Who Owns History? Geoffrey Robertson,2019-11-05 The biggest question in the world of art and culture concerns the return of property taken without consent Throughout history conquerors or colonial masters have taken artefacts from subjugated peoples who now want them returned from museums and private collections in Europe and the USA The controversy rages on over the Elgin Marbles and has been given immediacy by figures such as France s President Macron who says he will order French museums to return hundreds of artworks acquired by force or fraud in Africa and by British opposition leader Jeremy Corbyn who has pledged that a Labour government would return the Elgin Marbles to Greece Elsewhere there is a debate in Belgium about whether the Africa Museum newly opened with 120 000 items acquired mainly by armed forces in the Congo should close Although there is an international convention dated 1970 that deals with the restoration of artefacts stolen since that time there is no agreement on the rules of law or ethics which should govern the fate of objects forcefully or lawlessly acquired in previous centuries Who Owns History delves into the crucial debate over the Elgin Marbles but also offers a system for the return of cultural property based on human rights law principles that are being developed by the courts It is not a legal text but rather an examination of how the past can be experienced by everyone as well as by the people of the country of origin
