Hollywood and the Great Depression Iwan Morgan, 2016-10-31 Examines how Hollywood responded to and reflected the political and social changes that America experienced during the 1930s In the popular imagination 1930s Hollywood was a dream factory producing escapist movies to distract the American people from the greatest economic crisis in their nations history But while many films of the period conform to this stereotype there were a significant number that promoted a message either explicitly or implicitly in support of the political social and economic change broadly associated with President Franklin D Roosevelts New Deal programme At the same time Hollywood was in the forefront of challenging traditional gender roles both in terms of movie representations of women and the role of women within the studio system
