Sorell, 2013-03-02 Few campaigns have started with the British Army being so muddled or so outnumbered as the campaign that Sir John Moore began in 1808 Sent out by the London government to take charge of British forces in Portugal and Spain his appointment coincided with a major effort by the French to take the initiative in Spain Napoleon in person with 200 000 men started his offensive as Sir John struggled with the divided Spanish Juntas still suspicious of British intentions terrible roads few supplies and even worse information of the position of his allies or the French Eventually forced to withdraw he fought a brilliant defensive battle at Coru a during which he lost his own life Lt Col Sorrell was witness to the trials and tribulations of General Moore and defends his actions from critics whilst offering his own reminiscences of the campaign and the awful retreat to Coru a Author Lieut Col T S Sorell Text taken whole and complete from the edition published in London J Murray 1828 Original Page Count 53 pages Litteratur der Kriegswissenschaften und Kriegsgeschichte Johann Gottfried von HOYER, 1832 Repertorium der Militair-Literatur in den zwei letzten Decennien F. John Wilmot-Horton, 1829 Marshal William Carr Beresford Marcus de la Poer Beresford, 2018-10-30 Despite a propensity toward fierce criticism of his generals with great regard the Duke of Wellington referred to William Carr Beresford as the ablest man I have yet seen in the army Marshal William Carr Beresford is the story of a celebrated and distinguished Irishman honoured and decorated by the governments of Great Britain Portugal and Spain who served as Commander in Chief of the Portuguese army for eleven years The book follows the trajectory of Beresford s extensive military career Born the illegitimate son of the 1st Marquis of Waterford Beresford joined the British army in 1785 serving in the Mediterranean Egypt South Africa and South America before further distinguishing himself and meeting Wellington s redoubtable esteem as Marshal of the Portuguese forces during the Peninsular War Sent to Portugal to rebuild its army in the fight against Napoleon Beresford was so successful that Wellington integrated the Portuguese and British armed forces in that struggle Beresford is revealed as a trusted friend and confidant of Wellington a relationship that was to endure for the rest of their lives Their ability to work together led to Beresford s appointment as Master General of Ordinance in Wellington s government of 1828 This is the remarkable story of one of the most celebrated and decorated Irish soldiers ever to fight in overseas service and who was considered in all opinion as the Duke of Wellington s strong right arm Despite being fiercely critical of his generals Wellington described Beresford as the ablest man in the army and relied heavily on his Irish born commander Marshal Sir William Carr Beresford was the illegitimate son of the 1st Marquis of Waterford and rose to the rank of General in the British army and Marshal to the Portuguese forces during the Peninsular War Sent to Portugal to rebuild its demoralised forces against Napoleon Beresford was so successful that Wellington combined the Portuguese and British regiments and positioned Beresford as commander in chief Their friendship and trust are revealed in their correspondence which shows them not only writing to each other almost daily but meeting regularly to discuss strategy or to socialise It was an amicable and supportive relationship that continued for the rest of their lives leading to Beresford s appointment as Master General of Ordinance in Wellington s first government in 1828 Catalogue of the Library of the State Historical
