Music, evolution, and the harmony of souls Alan R. Harvey, 2017-02-10 Music is central to human cultural and intellectual experience. It is vitally important for the welfare of human society and this book argues should become more widely accepted in our community as a mainstream educational and therapeutic tool. This book explores the importance of music throughout human evolution and its continued relevance to modern day human society. Throughout the emphasis is on the origin of music and how and where it is processed in our brains, exploring in detail the genetic and cultural evolution of modern loquacious humans, how we may have evolved with unique neural and cognitive architecture and why two complementary but distinct communication systems, language and music, remain a human universal. In addition, the book explores in some depth the different theories that have been put forward to explain why musical communication was and remains advantageous to our species, with a particular emphasis on the role of music and dance in enhancing altruistic and prosocial behaviours. The author suggests that music and the social harmonization it brings was of vital importance in early humans as we became more and more individualized by the emergence of modern language and the modern mind and the realization that we are mortal. Music Evolution and the Harmony of Souls demonstrates the evolutionary sociobiological importance of music as a driver of cooperative and interactive behaviour throughout human existence and what this evolutionary imperative means to twenty-first century humanity and beyond from social and medical neurological perspectives.

Reward- and aversion-related processing in the brain: translational evidence for separate and shared circuits Dave J. Hayes, Georg Northoff, Andrew J. Greenshaw, 2016-05-18 Affective brain circuits underpin our moods and emotions Appetitive and aversive stimuli from our exteroceptive and interoceptive worlds play a key role in the activity of these circuits but we still do not know precisely how to characterize these so called reward related and aversion related systems Moreover we do not yet understand how they interact anatomically or functionally The aim of the current project was to gather some translational evidence to help clarify the role of such circuits A multi dimensional problem in its own right the book contains 14 works from authors exploring these questions at many levels from the cellular to the cognitive behavioural and from both experimental and conceptual viewpoints The editorial which introduces the book provides brief summaries of each perspective Hayes Northoff Greenshaw 2015 While questions of how to accurately define affect and emotion related concepts at the psychological level are far from answered here we have attempted to provide some insight into the brain based underpinnings of such processes The near future will undoubtedly involve making new inroads and will require the joint efforts of behavioural brain based and philosophical perspectives to do so
