range of readers across business feminist and LGBT Queer Studies fields Negotiating Gendered Identities in Primary School Jon Swain, 2024-11-30 This open access book explores young children's lives in their later years at primary school from their own point of view. It focuses on how girls and boys experience life in their informal peer group and explores the dynamics of friendships and social hierarchies, identities and how time is spent outside of lessons including the use of social media. The author interrogates how children make meanings of who they think they are, what it means to be a girl or a boy and what forms of femininity and masculinity are most dominant. Findings are based on interviews conducted at a middle class state school and a fee paying preparatory school on the outskirts of London. The book will be of interest to students and scholars of primary education, schooling and gender as well as primary school teachers both in the UK and internationally.

Place and Professional Practice Gavin J. Andrews, Emma Rowland, Elizabeth Peter, 2021-01-04 This book presents the first single comprehensive analysis of the scope of geographical realities and relevance in health care work. Conceptually, the book conveys how space, place and geographical ideas matter to clinical practice from the historical beginnings of professional roles and responsibilities in medicine to the present day. In 8 chapters, the book covers healthcare work across a range of job types including physician, nurse and multiple technical and therapeutic roles in multiple specialties and across a range of scales focusing on global issues and trends, national and regional particularities, urban and rural issues, institutional environments and various community settings. This book is intended for students, teachers and researchers in geography, social science and various health sciences. Chapter 1 examines how geographical ideas have been central to practitioners' thinking and practice over time. Chapter 2 reviews the scope of contemporary geographical study of health care work. Chapter 3 presents an empirical case study of the geographies in hospital-based ward work. Chapter 4 presents an empirical case study of the geographies in ambulance rapid response work. Chapter 5 presents a case study of the geographies associated with a high profile case of criminality and neglect in practice. Chapter 6 considers concepts and the geographies in person-centred care. Chapter 7 considers concepts and the geographies in skills attainment. Primary Health Care: People, Practice, Place Valorie A. Crooks, Gavin J. Andrews, 2016-04-08 Health care is constantly undergoing change and refinement resulting from the adoption of new practices and technologies, the changing nature of societies and populations and also shifts in the very places from which care is delivered. Primary Health Care: People, Practice, Place draws together significant contributions from established experts across a variety of disciplines to focus on such changes in primary health care not only because it is the most basic and integral form of health service delivery but also because it is an area to which geographers have made significant contributions and to which other scholars have engaged in thinking geographically about its core concepts and issues. Including perspectives from both consumers and producers, it moves beyond geographical accounts of the context of health service provision through its explicit focus on the practice of primary health care. With arguments well supported by empirical research, this book will appeal not only to scholars across a range of social and health
