

FINANCIAL AID FOR COLLEGE

Don't panic about those scary high costs of attendance you see posted on college websites. Lots of students actually pay through grants, scholarships and other "free" funds by the time all is said and done. To make sure your family gets its fair share of financial aid, follow these very easy steps.

1. ESTABLISH A PLAN

KNOW WHAT YOU WANT

Think about the advantages of early admission (the admission rate there is much higher than the rate at conventional schools) and early acceptance (there are 14 colleges that accept you without your good college application having been filed). Consider whether attending community college for a strategic period

FIND A FINANCIAL SAFETY NET

Look for colleges that give extra money when you qualify for need or achievement. Research one or more private colleges where you might be eligible for awards and, if you're a high-achiever, look for one or two colleges for which you

GET UP IN EARLY AID

Apply to as many colleges that complete directly with other schools as you can afford and be realistic about your chances.

CONSIDER THE FUTURE

Even if you don't expect to go to college, it's important for future employers to know you're a graduate. Research other schools that treat college as a graduation

KNOW WHAT TO ASK FOR

When you're applying, ask about your admission package. Are there monetary incentives, other special benefits or services? Ask about other awards and incentives, including athletic scholarships. Don't forget to ask for as many letters and proposals as you can get. You're looking for a lot.

TAKE THE TIME TO DECIDE

The College Board's Aid Report is a comprehensive and authoritative source of college aid information. Consider the aid information it contains and

KNOW YOUR NUMBERS

A college with a $10,000-a-year average per-student cost that you'll be able to finance through a $10,000-a-year scholarship is much more affordable than one with average $7,000-a-year cost and a $7,000-a-year scholarship.

LOOK BEYOND THE AID

How much aid does each school offer? Find out not only if you meet certain standards of need requirement, but also what other financial aid is available. Look for colleges that have financial aid programs that are flexible and can adjust to your needs.

KNOW WHAT TO ASK FOR

When you're applying, ask about your admission package. Are there monetary incentives, other special benefits or services? Ask about other awards and incentives, including athletic scholarships. Don't forget to ask for as many letters and proposals as you can get. You're looking for a lot.
