Wearable Technology for Robotic Manipulation and Learning Bin Fang, Fuchun Sun, Huaping Liu, Chunfang Liu, Di Guo, 2020-10-06. Over the next few decades, millions of people with varying backgrounds and levels of technical expertise will have to effectively interact with robotic technologies on a daily basis. This means it will have to be possible to modify robot behavior without explicitly writing code but instead via a small number of wearable devices or visual demonstrations. At the same time, robots will need to infer and predict human intentions and internal objectives on the basis of past interactions in order to provide assistance before it is explicitly requested; this is the basis of imitation learning for robotics. This book introduces readers to robotic imitation learning based on human demonstration with wearable devices. It presents an advanced calibration method for wearable sensors and fusion approaches under the Kalman filter framework, as well as a novel wearable device for capturing gestures and other motions. Furthermore, it describes the wearable device-based and vision-based imitation learning method for robotic manipulation, making it a valuable reference guide for graduate students with a basic knowledge of machine learning and for researchers interested in wearable computing and robotic learning.

Smartwatch, Fitness tracker, Portable ECG, Smartphone, Posture monitor, Hearing aid, MP3 player, E-reader, Wireless headset, Hiking watch, Gaming headset, Sleep monitor, Laptop, computer, Tablet. Indeed, a dizzying array of portable and wearable electronic devices is available to the modern consumer. Judging by the increasing popularity of portable power banks, waiting to recharge many of these devices using standard wall outlets is no longer a standard practice Wearable Solar Cell Systems looks at the possibilities for supporting the energy demand of these devices without the need to return to the dreaded wall outlet for recharging While crystalline silicon dominates world markets second or third generation solar cell technologies may be more suitable to wearable systems Array size architecture and management must also be chosen to best serve portable and wearable devices and harvest light energy from different light sources under a broad range of input conditions This book is intended to serve a wide audience from students who desire a basic introduction to solar photovoltaic cell technology to professionals seeking a holistic picture of wearable solar cells and systems
