Population Circulation and the Transformation of Ancient Zuni Communities Gregson Schachner, 2012-04-01 Because nearly all aspects of culture depend on the movement of bodies objects and ideas mobility has been a primary topic during the past forty years of archaeological research on small scale societies Most studies have concentrated either on local moves related to subsistence within geographically bounded communities or on migrations between regions resulting from pan regional social and environmental changes Gregson Schachner however contends that a critical aspect of mobility is the transfer of people goods and information within regions This type of movement which geographers term population circulation is vitally important in defining how both regional social systems and local communities are constituted maintained and most important changed Schachner analyzes a population shift in the Zuni region of west central New Mexico during the thirteenth century AD that led to the inception of major demographic changes the founding of numerous settlements in frontier zones and the initiation of radical transformations of community organization Schachner argues that intraregional population circulation played a vital role in shaping social transformation in the region and that many notable changes during this period arose directly out of peoples attempts to create new social mechanisms for coping with frequent and geographically extensive residential mobility By examining multiple aspects of population circulation and comparing areas that were newly settled in the thirteenth century to some that had been continuously occupied for hundreds of years Schachner illustrates the role of population circulation in the formation of social groups and the creation of contexts conducive to social change

Knocking on Ancestors' Door Steven Edmund Winduo, 1998 Human Migration Gareth J. Lewis, 2021-11-30 Originally published in 1982 this book examines the spatial patterns and underlying processes involved in human migration as well as its role as an agent in the development of the spatial organization of society Geographers have developed several methodologies in the study of migration and this volume integrates them in such a way that is useful for undergraduates studying any one branch of human geography

Sovereignty under Siege? Chris Rudd, 2017-05-15 This collection of invaluable essays explores analyzes and critically evaluates the interaction between globalization and New Zealand sovereignty The volume is the first to seriously address this subject in a systematic fashion It pursues three interrelated lines of enquiry the impact of globalization on the policy making machinery of the New Zealand state the development of New Zealand political culture including its sense of national identity during the globalization era and New Zealand s role on the international stage in a globalizing world The book reveals the paradoxes of New Zealand s encounter with globalization It will provide essential reading for specialists of globalization and for general readers interested in the complex national experience of New Zealand

Indonesian Houses: Tradition and transformation in vernacular architecture Reimar Schefold,P. Nas,Gaudenz Domenig,2003 The volume is intended to provide an introduction to all relevant vernacular architectural traditions and developments in western Indonesia The 21 contributions all written by researchers with long first hand experience in the area they are dealing with are arranged according to the location of the ethnic groups from west to east from Aceh to Western Java Each contributor was asked to enrich the architectural description with a self chosen particular topic illustrating social ideological and environmental peculiarities of the field situation The book takes account of the rich diversity of the various contexts and artistic elaborations that developed in the region

Society of Others Rupert Stasch,2009 In this timely commentary on the ideas of difference strangeness and Western contact Stasch weaves ethnographic materials together with theoretical framing in an exceptionally clear and compelling way A highly original important and in fact astonishing piece of scholarship Bambi Schieffelin author of The Give and Take of Everyday Life In this remarkable ethnography Rupert Stasch takes us to the lowlands of West Papua and into the lives of people who have built a social world out of their relationships with strange and potentially dangerous others The Korowai are classic inhabitants of the savage slot still dogged by their designation as Stone Age primitives Instead of flipping the script and arguing that the Korowai are just like everyone else Stasch draws far reaching lessons from the particularities of Korowai life Stasch writes with grace and clarity on the ambivalent ways in which the Korowai confront evade and embrace an otherness that resides not just in words food places and human bodies but also in the pasts and futures brought to mind by these material signs Analyzing Korowai sign use as a concrete historical process he charts the passage between intimacy and alterity that Korowai undergo in their encounters not only with spirits and Indonesian soldiers but also with children husbands and wives Some of what Stasch describes may seem strange and even disturbing But in pondering Stasch s findings one gradually comes to see the making of persons and relationships in an entirely new light Gone is the old debate between biological determination and cultural freedom in its place is an approach that affirms the multiple histories that converge in and flow from a life Erudite empathetic and unremittingly smart Society of Others recasts the very meaning of kinship and makes a case for the power of what anthropologists do

People on the Move in a Changing Climate Etienne Piguet, Frank Laczko,2013-10-17 Policymakers around the world are increasingly concerned about the likely impact of climate change and environmental degradation on the movement of people This book takes a hard look at the existing evidence available to policymakers in different regions of the world How much do we really know about the impact of environmental change on migration How will different regions of the world be affected in the future Is there evidence to show that migration can help countries adapt to environmental change What types of research have been conducted how reliable is the evidence These are some of the questions considered in this book which presents for the first time a synthesis of relevant research findings for each major region of the world Written by regional experts the book provides a comprehensive overview of the key findings of existing studies on the linkages between environmental change and the movement of people More and more reports on migration and the environment are being published but the information is often scattered between countries and within regions and it is not always clear how much of this information is based on solid research This book brings this evidence together for the first time highlighting innovative studies and research gaps In doing this the book seeks to help decision makers draw lessons from existing studies and to identify priorities for further research

Indonesian Houses, 2022-06-20 The traditional houses and settlements of the several hundred ethnic groups of Indonesia are extremely varied and all have their own unique history Underlying this rich diversity are fundamental similarities rooted in the ancient heritage that is shared by all the peoples in the Indonesian field of study The multiplicity of ways in which this heritage is given shape in each local situation bears witness to an amazing creativity in adapting to regional circumstances and social changes Inter ethnic comparison of the architectural structures is a way to arrive at a better understanding of both the shared traditions and the diverging developments In many cases the variety of house forms will reflect successful attempts at one group's making distinct its buildings from those of neighbouring groups in an ongoing ethnic process of what could be called mutual contrasting although sometimes by means of pseudo traditions which have little to do with indigenous customs of the past The contributions to this volume are grouped in four sections The first consists of essays describing approaches to the transformation and variation of houses The second set presents applications of these approaches in case studies of specific Sumatran cultures The third group widens the perspective through the inclusion of a number of cultures from outside Sumatra namely from Flores Sulawesi Kalimantan Palu and Roti The final set deals not so much with houses as with settlements In their pursuit of the cultural dimension of houses the contributions focus on villages and towns exploring their cosmological and symbolic organization

Southern Insurgency Immanuel Ness, 2015-10-20 The site of industrial struggle is shifting Across the Global South peasant communities are forced off the land to live and work in harsh and impoverished conditions Inevitably new methods of combating the spread of industrial capitalism are evolving in ambitious militant and creative ways This is the first book to theorise and examine the present and future shape of global class struggles Immanuel Ness looks at three key countries China India and South Africa In each case he considers the broader historical forces at play the effects of imperialism the decline of the trade union movement the class struggle and the effects of the growing reserve army of labour For each case study he narrows his focus to reveal the specifics of each grassroots insurgency export promotion and the rise of worker insurgency in China the new labour organisations in India and the militancy of the miners in South Africa This is a study about the nature of the new industrial worker in the Global South about people living a terrifying precarious existence but also one of experimentation solidarity and struggle

Drinking Smoke Mac Marshall, 2013-08-31 Tobacco kills 5 million people every year and that number is expected to double by the year 2020 Despite its enormous toll on human health tobacco has been largely neglected by anthropologists Drinking Smoke combines an exhaustive search of historical materials on the introduction and spread of tobacco in the Pacific with extensive anthropological accounts of the ways Islanders have incorporated this substance into their lives The author uses a relatively new concept called a syndemic the synergistic interaction of two or more afflictions contributing to a greater burden of disease in a population to focus at once on the health of a community political and economic structures and the wider physical and social environment and ultimately provide an in depth analysis of smoking s negative health impact in Oceania In Drinking Smoke the idea of a syndemic is applied to the current health crisis in the Pacific where the number of deaths from coronary heart disease cancer diabetes and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease continues to rise and the case is made that smoking tobacco in the form of industrially manufactured cigarettes is the keystone of the contemporary syndemic in Oceania The author shows how tobacco consumption particularly cigarette smoking after World War II has become the central interstitial element of a syndemic that produces most of the morbidity and mortality Pacific Islanders suffer This syndemic is made up of a bundle of diseases and conditions a set of historical circumstances and events and social and health inequities most easily summed up as poverty He calls this the tobacco syndemic and argues that smoking is the crucial behavior the glue holding all of these diseases and conditions together Drinking Smoke is the first book length examination of the damaging tobacco syndemic in a specific world region It is a must read for scholars and students of anthropology Pacific studies history and economic globalization as well as for public health practitioners and those working in allied health fields More broadly the book will appeal to anyone concerned with disease interaction the social context of disease production and the full health consequences of the global promotional efforts of Big Tobacco

Perspectives on the Bird's Head of Irian Jaya, Indonesia , 2023-07-31 The Bird s Head Peninsula of Irian Jaya has long been an area neglected by New Guinea Studies Only in the late seventies interest began to focus more intensively on this scientifically important border area between Austronesian and Papuan languages and cultures In the early nineties this led to the creation in The Netherlands of the Irian Jaya Studies programme ISIR which organizes and coordinates multi disciplinary research on the Bird s Head Peninsula Within this framework study of the peninsula has reached a peak with research being conducted in the area by scientists from different disciplines anthropology archaeology ethno botany demography development administration geology and linguistics The diverse perspectives of these disciplines are subject to constant internal debate Through ISIR and other research initiatives there is a growing body of data on and insights into the various disciplines concerned with this fascinating area with each discipline developing its own specific perspectives on the Bird's Head. These perspectives were presented during the First International Conference Perspectives on the Bird's Head of Irian Jaya Indonesia organized by ISIR in cooperation with the Indonesian Institute of Sciences LIPI Jakarta and the International Institute for Asian Studies ILAS Leiden and held at Leiden University 13-17 October 1997. Researchers were informed on current perspectives in many disciplines to facilitate integration of findings into wider interdisciplinary frameworks and to stimulate international debate within and between disciplines. As a result of the Conference the forty-two contributions in these Proceedings present a wealth of recent developments from various disciplines in New Guinea Studies.

On the Road Freek Colombijn, 2002

The Cambridge History of the Pacific Ocean: Volume 2, The Pacific Ocean since 1800 Anne Perez Hattori, Jane Samson, 2023-01-05

Volume II of The Cambridge History of the Pacific Ocean focuses on the latest era of Pacific history examining the period from 1800 to the present day. This volume discusses advances and emerging trends in the historiography of the colonial era before outlining the main themes of the twentieth century when the idea of a Pacific-centred century emerged. It concludes by exploring how history and the past inform preparations for the emerging challenges of the future. These essays emphasise the importance of understanding how the postcolonial period shaped the modern Pacific and its historians.

Towards a Pacific Island Sociology of Sport Yoko Kanemasu, 2024-10-10

Extending the horizon of regional sport scholarship beyond the Global North, this volume offers an exciting opportunity for sociology of sport scholars to widen the scope of their research in search of fuller understandings of the forms, meanings, dynamics and impacts of sport for Pacific peoples.

More than the Soil Jonathan Rigg, 2014-09-25

More than the Soil focuses on the social, cultural, economic and technological processes that have transformed rural areas of Southeast Asia. The underlying premise is that rural lives and livelihoods in this region have undergone fundamental change. No longer can we assume that rural livelihoods are founded on agriculture nor can we assume that people envisage their futures in terms of farming. The interpenetration of the rural and urban and the degree to which rural people migrate between rural and urban areas and shift from agriculture to non-agriculture raises fundamental questions about how we conceptualise the rural Southeast Asia and the households to be found there.

Exchange and Sacrifice Pamela J. Stewart, Andrew Strathern, 2008

Inspired by the research of the French anthropologist Daniel de Coppet on exchange, death and compensation in the Solomon Islands within the South West Pacific region, this edited collection highlights the fundamental connections between exchange and sacrifice as ritual practices within cosmological frameworks. The volume builds on both de Coppet's work and that of Marcel Mauss in The Gift and provides new insights from an engaging set of established scholars. The chapters in Exchange and Sacrifice stress the dynamic performativity of exchanges and their deep connections with ideas of sacrifice. This collection of theoretically and ethnographically focused essays will be valuable to those interested in the classic debates in social cultural anthropology on ritual and religious systems of material and spiritual interaction and the politics of the gift This book is part of the Ritual Studies Monograph Series edited by Pamela J Stewart and Andrew Strathern Department of Anthropology University of Pittsburgh Rich ethnographic detail intellectual challenge and theoretical insight make this excellent collection a must read for scholars of Melanesia and theorists of exchange and sacrifice Naomi M McPherson Pacific Affairs The University of British Columbia The authors present effort and those of all the contributors should be appreciated as a gallant Anglophone tribute to de Coppet s legacy in Melanesian anthropology It is a useful springboard for further mindful explorations and critique of his position as well as of the cosmo ontological problematisation of exchange and sacrifice The Australian Journal of Anthropology R ich ethnographic analyses of the complex relationship between exchange and sacrifice in Melanesian societies Toon Van Meijl Bijdragen tot de Taal Land en Volkenkunde Journal of the Humanities and Social Sciences of Southeast Asia and Oceania This collection contains a set of carefully argued discussions of the two concepts featured in the title and the way in which these have been linked not only to the taking of life but to the making of human life and communities Overall the content of each of the authors chapters are complex but well worth exploring Wendy E Cowling Anthropological Notebooks
