Smart Home In The Us Returns:

Handbook on Moving Corrections and Sentencing Forward Pamela K. Lattimore, Beth M. Huebner, Faye S.

Taxman, 2020-11-10 This volume addresses major issues and research in corrections and sentencing with the goal of using previous research and findings as a platform for recommendations about future research evaluation and policy The last several decades witnessed major policy changes in sentencing and corrections in the United States as well as considerable research to identify the most effective strategies for addressing criminal behavior These efforts included changes in sentencing that eliminated parole and imposed draconian sentences for violent and drug crimes The federal government followed by most states implemented sentencing guidelines that greatly reduced the discretion of the courts to impose sentences The results were a multifold increase in the numbers of individuals in jails and prisons and on community supervision increases that have only recently crested There were also efforts to engage prosecutors and the courts in diversion and oversight including the development of prosecutorial diversion programs as well as a variety of specialty courts Penal reform has included efforts to understand the transitions from prison to the community including federal led efforts focused on reentry programming Community corrections reforms have ranged from increased surveillance through drug testing electronic monitoring and in some cases judicial oversight to rehabilitative efforts driven by risk and needs assessment More recently the focus has included pretrial reform to reduce the number of people held in jail pending trial efforts that have brought attention to the use of bail and its disproportionate impact on people of color and the poor This collection of chapters from leading researchers addresses a wide array of the latest research in the field A unique approach featuring responses to the original essays by active researchers spurs discussion and provides a foundation for developing directions for future research and policymaking

Rethinking America's Correctional Policies Anne S. Douds, Eileen M. Ahlin, 2017-06-02 Commonsense Choices from Uncommon Voices Rethinking America's Correctional Policies brings together the experiences of men who served time in prison with contemporary research on correctional policy This work combines a voyeuristic desire to observe evil and the consequences of the system of punishment with detached consideration of what those stories can tell us about who we are as a nation and how we treat those who have betrayed the social trust The authors simultaneously examine first person accounts of inmate experiences with the correctional system and what actually works in operation to promote the rehabilitative and restorative models of justice so many of our policymakers espouse Each chapter opens with a vignette a recollection of an event or series of events about an inmate's experience during the various phases of correctional processing These first hand accounts have been collected from men who served time in prison These men's stories are examined in their own right then extrapolated to a broader analysis of the underlying social and policy issues to which that vignette speaks All chapters follow the same structure a opening vignette about a former inmate b analysis which includes i identification of the underlying issue ii reflection and iii extrapolation to a larger policy issue and c recommendations from the field for enacting practice and crafting policy more responsive to the identified issue

Building an Intuitive Multimodal Interface for a Smart Home John N.A Brown,Anton Josef Fercher,Gerhard Leitner,2017-05-03 This book describes an innovative approach to the interaction between humans and a smart environment an attempt to get a smart home to understand intuitive multi modal human centred communication State of the art smart homes like other smart technology tend to demand that the human user must adapt herself to the needs of the system The hunt for a truly user centred truly intuitive system has long proven to be beyond the grasp of current technology When humans speak with one another we are multimodal Our speech is supplemented with gestures which serve as a parallel stream of information reinforcing the meaning of our words Drawing on well established protocols in engineering and psychology and with no small amount of inspiration from a particular nonsense poem we have successfully concluded that hunt This book describes the efforts undertaken over several years to design implement and test a model of interaction that allows untrained individuals to intuitively control a complex series of networked and embedded systems The theoretical concepts are supported by a series of experimental studies showing the advantages of the novel approach and pointing towards future work that would facilitate the deployment of this concept in the real world Annual Reports, Returns, Etc
