One Is Enough By Flora Nwapa:

One is Enough Flora Nwapa, 1992-01-01 After six years of happy though childless marriage Amaka at thirty is shattered to discover that her husband plans to take another wife a woman who has already borne him two sons in secret She makes a brave decision Rather than stay in the comfort and security of her marital home she will go to Lagos and try to make a fresh start in life A powerful story by Nigeria's premier woman writer about one woman's struggle to find an independent and fulfilling life of her own West African Literatures Stephanie Newell, 2006-06-08 The Oxford Studies in Postcolonial Literatures series general editor Elleke Boehmer offers stimulating and accessible introductions to definitive topics and key genres and regions within the rapidly diversifying field of postcolonial literary studies in English This study of West African literatures interweaves the analysis of fiction drama and poetry with an exploration of the broader political cultural and intellectual contexts within which West African writers work Anglophone literatures form the central focus of the book with comparative comments on vernacular literature francophone writing and oral literatures and detailed discussion of selected francophone texts in translation e.g. Senghor Tadjou Beyala B Sembene Moving from a discussion of nationalist and anti colonial writing in the period before independence towards the more experimental writings of contemporary authors such as Vronique Tadjou Ivory Coast Syl Cheney Coker Sierra Leone and Kojo Laing Ghana the book constantly relates texts to the social and political history of West Africa Canonical internationally well known writers such as Chinua Achebe and Wole Soyinka are positioned in relation to the literary cultures and debates which surrounded them when they first produced their seminal texts the discussions and disagreements which have grown up around their work in subsequent decades are also considered The work of new and lesser known writers is also considered including Niyi Osundare Nigeria and Kofi Anyidoho Ghana In order to convey a sense of the rich and complex societies that are clustered beneath the umbrella term postcolonial emphasis is placed on West Africa's diverse oral and popular cultures and the ways in which local intellectuals and readers have responded to the most prominent authors through the aesthetic frameworks generated by these forms Africa Wo/Man Palava Chikwenye Okonjo Ogunyemi, 1996-04-15 Ogunyemi uses the novels to trace a Nigerian women's literary tradition that reflects an ideology centered on children and community Of prime importance is the paradoxical Mammywata figure the independent childless mother who serves as a basis for the postcolonial woman in the novels and in society at large Ogunyemi tracks this figure through many permutations from matriarch to writer her multiple personalities reflecting competing loyalties This sustained critical study counters prevailing masculinist theories of black literature in a powerful narrative of the Nigerian world Black African Literature in English, 1997-1999 Bernth Lindfors, 2003 This volume lists the work produced on anglophone black African literature between 1997 and 1999 This bibliographic work is a continuation of the highly acclaimed earlier volumes compiled by Bernth Lindfors Containing about 10 000 entries some of which are annotated to identify the authors discussed it covers books periodical articles papers in edited collections and selective

Feminism and Modernity in Anglophone African Women's Writing Dobrota Pucherová,2022-07-29 This book re reads the last 60 years of Anglophone African women s writing from a transnational and trans historical feminist perspective rather than postcolonial from which these texts have been traditionally interpreted Such a comparative frame throws into relief patterns across time and space that make it possible to situate this writing as an integral part of women s literary history Revisiting this literature in a comparative context with Western women writers since the 18th century the author highlights how invocations of tradition have been used by patriarchy everywhere to subjugate women the similarities between women s struggles worldwide and the feminist imagination it produced The author argues that in the 21st century African feminism has undergone a major epistemic shift from a culturally exclusive to a relational feminism that conceptualizes African femininity through the risky opening of oneself to otherness transculturation and translation Like Western feminists in the 1960s contemporary African women writers are turning their attention to the female body as the prime site of women's oppression and freedom reframing feminism as a demand for universal human rights and actively shaping global discourses on gender modernity and democracy The book will be of interest to students and researchers of African literature but also feminist literary scholars and comparatists more generally

Rising Anthills Elisabeth Bekers, 2010-08-05 Female genital excision or the ritual of cutting the external genitals of girls and women is undoubtedly one of the most heavily and widely debated cultural traditions of our time By looking at how writers of African descent have presented the practice in their literary work Elisabeth Bekers shows how the debate on female genital excision evolved over the last four decades of the twentieth century in response to changing attitudes about ethnicity nationalism colonialism feminism and human rights Rising Anthills the title refers to a Dogon myth analyzes works in English French and Arabic by African and African American writers both women and men from different parts of the African continent and the diaspora Attending closely to the nuances of language and the complexities of the issue Bekers explores lesser known writers side by side with such recognizable names as Ngugi wa Thiong'o Flora Nwapa Nawal El Saadawi Ahmadou Kourouma Calixthe Beyala Alice Walker and Gloria Naylor Following their literary discussions of female genital excision she discerns a gradual evolution from the 1960s when writers mindful of its communal significance carefully wrote around the physical operation through the 1970s and 1980s when they began to speak out against the practice and their societies gender politics to the late 1990s when they situated their denunciations of female genital excision in a much broader international context of women's oppression and the struggle for women's rights

Visions of Womanhood in Contemporary African Literature Blessing Diala-Ogamba, 2021-09-28 Through an analysis of historical and contemporary literature Visions of Womanhood in Contemporary African Literature argues that African women were not relegated to the background in African society until after colonization Blessing Diala Ogamba analyzes the history of women's roles in African society through oral stories and biographies to show how colonialization worked to oppress women in Africa and explores the ways contemporary African literature confronts and works to overcome its colonial past Using works by authors such as Akachi Adimora Ezeigbo Lilian Masitera Nawal El Sadaawi Lauretta Ncgobo Sembene Ousmane and many others Diala Ogamba reveals the consistent progression of women and their roles in African novels and society

A History of Twentieth-century African Literatures Oyekan Owomoyela, 1993-01-01 African literatures says volume editor Oyekan Owomoyela testify to the great and continuing impact of the colonizing project on the African universe African writers must struggle constantly to define for themselves and other just what Africa is and who they are in a continent constructed as a geographic and cultural entity largely by Europeans This study reflects the legacy of colonialism by devoting nine of its thirteen chapters to literature in European languages English French and Portuguese Foremost among the Anglophone writers discussed are Nigerians Amos Tutuola Chinua Achebe and Wole Soyinka Writers from East Africa are also represented as are those from South Africa Contributors for this section include Jonathan A Peters Arlene A Elder John F Povey Thomas Knipp and J Ndukaku Amankulor In African Francophone literature we see both writers inspired by the French assimilationist system and those influenced by Negritude the African culture affirmation movement Contributors here include Servanne Woodward Edris Makward and Alain Ricard African literature in Portuguese reflecting the nature of one of the most oppressive colonizing projects in Africa is treated by Russell G Hamilton Robert Cancel discusses African language literatures while Oyekan Owomoyela treats the question of the language of African literatures Carole Boyce Davies and Elaine Savory Fido focus on the special problems of African women writers while Hans M Zell deals with the broader issues of publishing censorship resources and organization

Teaching African Literature Today Ernest Emenyonu, 2011 Focuses on theoretical and pedagogical approaches to the teaching of African literature on both sides of the Atlantic and beyond The publication of Chinua Achebe's Things Fall Apart in 1958 drew universal attention not only to contemporary African creative imagination but also established the art of the modern African novel In 1986 Wole Soyinka became the first African to win the Nobel Prize for Literature and opened the gate for other African writers By the close of the 20th century African literature had gained world wide acceptance and legitimacy in the academy and featured on the literature curriculum of schools and colleges across the globe This special issue of African Literature Today examines the diverse experiences of teachers of African literature across regional racial cultural and national boundaries It explores such issues as student responses productive pedagogical innovations the impact of modern technology case studies of online teaching teaching criticism of African literature and teaching African literature in an age of multiculturalism It is intended as an invaluable teacher's handbook and essential student companion for the effective study of African literature Issues in African Literature E. Nnolim, 2010-12-01 The multitudinous nature of African literature has always been an issue but really not a problem although its oral base has been used by expatriate critics to accuse African literature of thin plots superficial characterisation and narrative structures African literature also it is observed is a mixed grill it is oral it is written in vernacular or tribal tongues written in foreign tongues English French Portuguese and within the foreign language in which it is written pidgin and creole further bend the already bent language giving African literature a further taint of linguistic impurity African literature further suffers from the nature of its newness and this created problems for the critic Because it is new and because its critics are in simultaneous existence with its writers we confront the problem of instant analysis Issues in African Literature continues the debate and tries to clarify contemporary burning issues in African literature by focussing on particular areas where the debate has been most concerned or around which it has hovered and been persistent
