Closing Melodies Rainer J. Hanshe, 2023-10-15 As the 19th century comes to a close Friedrich Nietzsche and Vincent van Gogh unknowingly traverse proximate geographical terrain nearly circling one another like close but distant stars as the philosopher wanders between Nizza Sils Maria and Torino and the painter wanders between Paris Arles and Saint Remy In the midst of their philosophical and artistic pursuits simultaneously the Eiffel Tower symbol of artistic progress and industrialization begins to rise in Paris amidst clamors of protest and praise Through intertwining letters written to sometimes by friends family and others the philosopher and painter are brought into ever greater proximity as we witness their daily personal and artistic struggles Woven between and interrupting this panoply of voices are a series of intervals short illuminating blasts like a camera's exploding flash powder of artistic scientific political and other events spanning 1888 to 1890 drawing Nietzsche and Van Gogh in and out of the wider expanses of history As construction of the Eiffel Tower comes to completion in Paris and Elisabeth Forster the sister of the philosopher of the will to power tries to found a utopic race colony in South America the lives of Nietzsche and Van Gogh come to their terrible denouements Her brother now a full fledged zombie the former queen of Nueva Germania seizes the reins of his living corpse and rides him into the future With no deus ex machina in sight and none possible WWI and the terrors and the beauties of the 20th century crack the horizon

One Thousand & One Kari Hukkila, 2023-12-31 Kari Hukkila's One Thousand One is a philosophical essayistic novel about catastrophes both natural and man made about humans ability to respond to catastrophes by thinking or at the very least simply managing to survive Hukkila's novel is a cornucopia of micro histories digressions and a broad gallery of characters ranging from the philosopher Ludwig Wittgenstein to an Ethiopian refugee in Rome One Thousand One begins when a large birch tree falls on a cabin near the Russian border in eastern Finland leaving the narrator unable to concentrate on a writing project he has been at work on He decides then to take up an invitation to Rome where his lifelong friend has lived since abandoning a life in philosophy In Hukkila's novel Scheherazade's survival by continuing to tell stories is reimagined as survival by continuing to think a continued thought activity often taken to extremes the preservation of humanity in an inhumane world In David Hackston's eloquent translation Hukkila's musical meandering thought provoking prose is full of savage ironic and luminous humor remaining uncompromisingly alive until the final sentence One Thousand One is the first in a projected series of five novels Upon its release in Finland in 2016 it was said to bear all the hallmarks of a classic

The Serf Josef Winkler, 1997 The hero is a writer who has returned to the hell from which he thought he had escaped Writing is an addiction and he needs the stimulus of his family and native village to feed his addiction His ability to express himself liberates him from the mute acceptance of the status quo which is the fate of most of the villagers Graveyard of Bitter Oranges Josef Winkler, 2015-11-05 In 1979 Josef Winkler appeared on the literary horizon as if from nowhere collecting numerous honors and the praise of the most prominent critical voices in Germany and Austria Throughout the 1980s he chronicled the malevolence dissipation and unregenerate Nazism endemic to Austrian village life in an increasingly trenchant and hallucinatory series of novels At the decade s end fearing the silence that always lurks over the writer s shoulder he abandoned the Hell of Austria for Rome not to flee but to come closer to the darkness There he passes his days and nights among the junkies rent boys gypsies and transsexuals who congregate around Stazione Termini and Piazza dei Cinquecento as well as in the graveyards and churches where his blasphemous reveries render the most hallowed rituals obscene Traveling south to Naples and Palermo he writes down his nightmares and recollections and all that he sees and reads engaged like Rimbaud in a rational derangement of the senses but one whose aim is a ruthless condemnation of church and state and the misery they sow in the lives of the downtrodden Equal parts memoir dream journal and scandal sheet the novel is in the author s words a cage drawn around the horror Writing here is an act of commemoration and redemption a gathering of the bones of the forgotten dead and those outcast and spit on by society their consecration in art and their final repatriation to the book s titular graveyard
