Respectable Saidiya Grundy, 2022-08-02 The making of a culture of Black male respectability at Morehouse that underlines conservative notions of gender and class by a former Spelman student who was once Miss Morehouse How does it feel to be groomed as the solution to a national Black male problem This is the guiding paradox of Respectable an in-depth examination of graduates of Morehouse College the nation's only historically Black college for men While Black male collegians are often culturally fetishized for beating the odds the image of

Black male success that Morehouse assiduously promotes and celebrates is belied by many of the realities that challenge the students on this campus Saida Grundy offers a unique insider perspective a graduate of Spelman college and a former Miss Morehouse Grundy crafts an incisive feminist and sociological account informed by her personal insights and scholarly expertise Respectable gathers the experiences of former students and others connected to Morehouse to illustrate the narrow conservative vision of masculinity molded at a competitive Black institution The thirty two men interviewed unveil a culture that forges confining ideas of respectable Black manhood within a context of relentless peer competition and sexual violence measured against unattainable archetypes of idealized racial leadership Grundy underlines the high costs of making these men the experiences of low income students who navigate class issues at Morehouse the widespread homophobia laced throughout the college s notions of Black male respectability and the crushingly conformist expectations of a college that sees itself as making good Black men As Morehouse s problems continue to pour out into national newsfeeds this book contextualizes these issues not as a defect of Black masculinity but as a critique of what happens when an institution services an imagination of what Black men should be at the expense of more fully understanding the many ways these young people see themselves

Series dedicated to innovative unconventional ways to connect undergraduate students and their lived concerns about our social world to the power of social science ideas and evidence Our goal with the project is to help spark social science imaginations and in doing so new avenues for meaningful thought and action Each Stuff title is a short 100 page mini text illuminating for students the network of people and activities that create their material world Lycra describes the development of a specific fabric but in the process provides students with rare insights into U S corporate history the changing image of women in America and how a seemingly doomed product came to occupy a position never imagined by its inventors and contained in the wardrobe of virtually every American And it will generate lively discussion of the story of the relationship between technology science and society over the past half a century Anthropologies of Class James G. Carrier, Don Kalb, 2015-02-05 Rising social political and economic inequality in many countries and rising protest against it has seen the restoration of the concept of class to a prominent place in contemporary anthropological debates A timely intervention in these discussions this book explores the concept of class and its importance for understanding the key sources of that inequality and of people s attempts to deal with it Highly topical it situates class within the context of the current economic crisis integrating elements from today into the discussion of an earlier agenda Using cases from North and South America Western Europe and South Asia it shows the sometimes surprising forms that class can take as well as the various effects it has on people s lives and societies Paradise Redefined Vanessa Fong, 2011-08-01 This book picks up where author Vanessa Fong left off in Only Hope Coming of Age under China s One Child Policy Stanford 2004 and continues by telling the stories of the Chinese youth who left China in their teens and 20s to study in Australia Europe Japan New Zealand North America or Singapore Fong examines the expectations and experiences of Chinese students who go abroad in search of opportunity and the factors that cause some to return to China and others to stay abroad In My Power Konstantin Dierks, 2011-09-29 In My Power tells the story of letter writing and communications in the creation of the British Empire and the formation of the United States In an era of bewildering geographical mobility economic metamorphosis and political upheaval the proliferation of letter writing and the development of a communications infrastructure enabled middle class Britons and Americans to rise to advantage in the British Atlantic world Everyday letter writing demonstrated that the blessings of success in the early modern world could come less from the control of overt political power than from the cultivation of social skills that assured the middle class of their technical credentials moral deserving and social innocence In writing letters the middle class not only took effective action in a turbulent world but also defined what they believed themselves to be able to do in that world Because this ideology of agency was extended to women and the youngest of children in the eighteenth century it could be presented as universalized even as it was withheld from Native Americans and enslaved blacks Whatever the explicit purposes behind letter writing may have been educational improvement family connection business enterprise the effect was to render the full terms of social division invisible both to those who accumulated power and to those who did not The uncontested power that came from letter writing was Konstantin Dierks provocatively argues as important as racist violence to the rise of the white middle class in the British Atlantic world
