A Political Theology of Climate Change Michael Northcott, 2014-04-17 The failure of political institutions including national governments and the United Nations to mitigate climate change reflects the modern constitution of the nation state as a cultural and secular rather than created and providential agency Northcott constructs a new political theology of climate change that acknowledges the role of borders in the constitution of the nations and their providential ordering under God as assemblies of persons who recognise particular duties to each other within those borders Against this conception a global economy promotes a state of conflict over access to basic natural goods Elite agents use networks of power to act without reference to the common good or to fair access to natural resources

Emmet Scott,2014-03-01 Scott confronts conventional historians and looks at the evidence archaeological and textual for the proposition that three centuries roughly between 615 and 915 never existed and are phantom years The author shows in detail how no archaeology exists for these three centuries and that the material remains of the seventh century closely resemble those of the tenth and lie directly beneath them This is the first book on this topic in the English language though Heribert Illig s books on the same topic Das erfundene Mittelalter and Wer hat an der Uhr gedreht have been best sellers in German speaking Europe Coping with Climate Change Ramesha Chandrappa,Sushil Gupta,Umesh Chandra

Environmental Politics and Liberation in Contemporary Africa M.A. Salih,2013-03-14 Nowadays the environment looms large in the analysis of conflict in developing societies and the precise role it plays is the subject of an ongoing debate The debate has moved on from the earlier but still popular notions of power struggles class struggles and ethnic conflicts to a perception of conflict as the product of intense group competition for resources Where the state controls the distribution of resources itself inevitably becomes party to conflicts whose bone of contention is access to state power as the most efficient means of gaining access to resources The resources in question are social health education transportation communication recreation etc and material land water housing jobs contracts licenses permits etc In parts of the world and especially in Africa diminishing resources and authoritarian state rule exacerbate group competition leading to political confrontation This is the line I have followed in analysing conflict in the Horn of Africa Markakis 1987 1998 Mohamed Salih's first contribution in this volume is to move the debate a step beyond this line which can be criticized as unduly materialist He does it by bringing culture into the realm of resources not only as a resource in itself but also as the agency that assigns natural resources their value Culture thus becomes a contextual element in conflict over resources whose value is culturally determined

Facing Global Environmental Change Hans Günter Brauch, Navnita Chadha Behera, Patricia Kameri-Mbote, John Grin, Úrsula Oswald Spring, Béchir Chourou, Czeslaw Mesjasz, Heinz Krummenacher, 2009-06-04 The year 2007 could perhaps accurately be described as the year when climate change finally received the attention that this challenge deserves globally Much of the information and knowledge that was created in this field during the year was the result of the findings of the Fourth assessment Report AR4 of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC which were disseminated on a large scale and reported extensively by the media This was the result not only of a heightened interest on the part of the public on various aspects of climate change but also because the IPCC itself proactively attempted to spread the findings of its AR4 to the public at large The interest generated on the scientific realities of climate change was further enhanced by the award of the Nobel Peace Prize to the IPCC and former Vice President of the US Al Gore By taking this decision in favour of a leader who has done a great deal to create awareness on climate change and a body that assesses all scientific aspects of climate change and disseminates the result of its findings the Norwegian Nobel Committee has clearly drawn the link between climate change and peace in the world

Edward Wall, 2004 Live Stock Journal, 1920 Strategic Nonviolent Power Mark A. Mattaini, 2013-10-01 History indicates that there are powerful routes to liberation from oppression that do not involve violence Mohandas Gandhi called for a science of nonviolent action one based on satyagraha or the insistence on truth As Gandhi understood nonviolent resistance is not passive nor is it weak rather such action is an exercise of power Despite the success of Gandhi s Quit India movement the resources dedicated to the application of rigorous science to nonviolent struggle have been vanishingly small By contrast almost unimaginable levels of financial and human resources have been devoted to the science and technologies of killing war and collective violence Mark Mattaini reviews the history and theory of nonviolent struggles against oppression and discusses recent research that indicates the substantial need for and advantage of nonviolent alternatives He then offers a detailed exploration of principles of behavioral systems science that appear to underlie effective strategic civil resistance and people power Strategic Nonviolent Power proposes that the route to what Gandhi described as the undreamt of and seemingly impossible discoveries of nonviolent resistance is the application of rigorous science Although not a simple science Mattaini s application of ecological science grounded in the science of behaviour brings exceptional power to the struggle for justice and liberation At a time when civil resistance is actively reshaping global political realities the science of nonviolent struggle deserves the attention of the scientific activist strategic military spiritual and diplomatic communities as well as the informed public
