Nice Music Theater Popular Nationalism 1880 193:

Music and British Culture, 1785-1914 Christina Bashford, Leanne Langley, 2000 This book takes the themes and approaches of Professor Cyril Ehrlich's pathbreaking work on British social history in music as its inspiration. In sixteen substantial new essays all specially commissioned from cultural and musical historians it embraces the music marketplace piano culture musicians work patterns music institutions and audiences concert and repertoire history issues in performance criticism and reception gender and national and urban identities all with a clear focus on art music traditions significantly under treated by music scholars in this area. The cultural importance of serious music from Belfast to Calcutta has long been assumed for the period but rarely demonstrated. Here it is central interwoven with the social and economic realities confronting music people in Britain across the 19th century.

Musical Culture and the Spirit of Irish Nationalism, 1848-1972 Richard Parfitt, 2019-08-19 Musical Culture and the Spirit of Irish Nationalism is the first comprehensive history of music's relationship with Irish nationalist politics. Addressing rebel songs traditional music and dance national anthems and protest song the book draws upon an unprecedented volume of material to explore music's role in cultural and political nationalism in modern Ireland. From the nineteenth century Young Irelanders the Fenians the Home Rule movement Sinn Féin and the Anglo Irish War to establishment politics in independent Ireland and civil rights protests in Northern Ireland this wide ranging survey considers music's importance and its limitations across a variety of political movements.

Music and the Sonorous Sublime in European Culture, 1680-1880 Sarah Hibberd, Miranda Stanyon, 2020-05-28 The first English language collection on the musical sublime. Reveals music's place at the forefront of this interdisciplinary aesthetic category.

Depictions and Images of War in Edwardian Newspapers, 1899-1914 G. Wilkinson, 2002-12-13 Through a detailed examination of newspaper coverage from 1899-1914 this book seeks to understand the vicarious experience of warfare held by Edwardians at the outset of the First World War. The attitudes towards and perceptions of war held by those who participated in it or encouraged others to do so are crucial to our understanding of the origins of the First World War. Taking into account media history cultural studies and military history Wilkinson argues that the press depicted war as distant and safe beneficial and desirable and even as some kind of sport or game. We are cautioned to avoid the same misconceptions of war in our own contemporary discussions of armed conflict.

Representing Calcutta Swati Chattopadhyay, 2005-09-20 Representing Calcutta is a spatial history of the colonial city and addresses the question of modernity that haunts our perception of Calcutta. The book responds to two inter related concerns about the city. First is the image of Calcutta as the worst case scenario of a Third World city the proverbial city of dreadful nights. Second is the changing nature of the city's public spaces the demise of certain forms of urban sociality that has been mourned in recent literature as the passing of Bengali modernity. By examining architecture city plans paintings literature and official reports through the lens of postcolonial feminist and spatial theory the book explores the conditions of colonialism and anti colonial nationalism that produced the city as a modern artefact At the centre of this exploration resides the problem of representing the city representation understood as description and narration as well as political representation In doing so Chattopadhyay questions the very idea of colonial cities as creations of the colonizers and the model of colonial cities as dual cities split in black and white areas in favour of a more complicated view of the topography

The Cambridge History of Nineteenth-Century Music Jim Samson,2001-12-03 First published in 2002 this comprehensive overview of music in the nineteenth century draws on extensive scholarship in the field

Staging the Past Maria Bucur,Nancy Meriwether Wingfield,2001 This volume contains three sections of essays which examine the role of commemoration and public celebrations in the creation of a national identity in Habsburg lands It also seeks to engage historians of culture and of nationalism in other geographic fields as well as colleagues who work on Habsburg Central Europe but write about nationalism from different vantage points There is hope that this work will help generate a dialogue especially with colleagues who live in the regions that were analyzed Many of the authors consider the commemorations discussed in this volume from very different points of view as they themselves are strongly rooted in a historical context that remains much closer to the nationalism we critique
