Conflict, Education and People's War in Nepal Sanjeev Rai, 2018-02-19 This book presents an overview of the democracy movement and the history of education in Nepal. It shows how schools became the battleground for the state and the Maoists as well as captures emerging trends in the field challenges for the state and negotiations with political commitments. It looks at the factors that contributed to the conflict and studies the politics of the region alongside gender and identity dynamics. One of the first studies on the subject, the book highlights how conflict and education are intrinsically linked in Nepal. It illustrates how schools became the centre of attention between warring groups and how they were used for political meetings and recruitment of fighters during the political transitions in a contested terrain in South Asia. It brings to the fore incidents of abduction and killing of teachers and students and the use of children as porters for arms and ammunitions. Drawing extensively on both primary and secondary sources and qualitative analyses, the book provides the key to a complex web of relationships among the stakeholders during conflict and also models of education in post conflict situations. This book will interest scholars and researchers in education, politics, peace and conflict studies, sociology, development studies, social work, strategic and security studies, contemporary history, international relations and Nepal and South Asian studies.

Manufacturing Citizenship Veronique Benei, 2007-04-11 In recent years, citizenship has emerged as a very important topic in the sciences, mainly as a result of the effects of migration, population displacements and cultural heterogeneity. This book focuses on educational enterprise and how it affects national ambitions, cultural preferences and political trends. It also examines the major effects of globalisation, the large scale movements of populations and the impact this all has in terms of education and citizenship. With contributions from an array of international scholars including Etienne Balibar and featuring various international case studies, Manufacturing Citizenship will be extremely interesting to the education academic community as well as many readers within cultural studies and politics.

Literacy and Mothering Robert A. LeVine, Sarah LeVine, Beatrice Schnell-Anzola, Meredith L. Rowe, Emily Dexter, 2011-03-01 Winner of the 2013 Eleanor Maccoby Award from APA Division 7. Women's schooling is strongly related to child survival and other outcomes beneficial to children throughout the developing world, but the reasons behind these statistical connections have been unclear. In Literacy and Mothering, the authors show for the first time how communicative change plays a key role. Girls acquire academic literacy skills even in low quality schools which enable them as mothers to understand public health messages in the mass media and to navigate bureaucratic health services effectively, reducing risks to their children's health. With the acquisition of academic literacy, their health literacy and health navigation skills are enhanced thereby reducing risks to children and altering interactions between mother and child Assessments of these maternal skills in four diverse countries Mexico Nepal Venezuela and Zambia support this model and are presented in the book Chapter 1 provides a brief history of mass schooling including the development of a bureaucratic Western form of schooling Along with the bureaucratic organization of healthcare services and other institutions this form of mass schooling spread across the globe setting new standards for effective communication standards that are in effect taught in school Chapter 2 reviews the demographic and epidemiological evidence concerning the effects of mothers education on survival health and fertility In this chapter the authors propose a model that shows how women s schooling together with urbanization and changes in income and social status reduce child mortality and improve health In Chapter 3 the authors examine the concept of literacy and discuss how its meanings and measurements have been changed by educational research of the last few decades Chapter 4 introduces the four country study of maternal literacy Chapters 5 6 and 7 present the findings focusing on academic literacy and its retention Chapter 5 its impact on maternal health literacy and navigation skills Chapter 6 and changes in mother child interaction and child literacy skills Chapter 7 Chapter 8 presents a new analysis of school experience explores policy implications and recommends further research SP's Military Yearbook ,2004
