Financial Aid Mlb Playoffs On Sale:

Land of the Fee Devin Fergus, 2018 The loans ordinary Americans take out to purchase homes and attend college often leave them in a sea of debt As Devin Fergus explains in Land of the Fee a not insignificant portion of that debt comes in the form of predatory hidden fees attached to everyday transactions Beginning in the 1980s lobbyists for the financial industry helped dismantle consumer protections resulting in surreptitious fees often waived for those who can afford them but not for those who can't Bluntly put these hidden fees unfairly keep millions of Americans from their hard earned money Journalists and policymakers have identified the primary causes of increasing wealth inequality fewer good working class jobs a rise in finance driven speculative capitalism and a surge of tax policy decisions that benefit the ultra rich among others However they miss one commonplace but substantial contributor to the widening divide between the rich and the rest the explosion of fees on every transaction people make in their daily lives Land of the Fee traces the system of fees from its origins in the deregulatory wave of the late 1970s to the present The average consumer now pays a dizzying array of charges for mortgage contracts banking transactions auto insurance rates college payments and payday loans These fees are buried in the pages of small print agreements that few consumers read or understand Because these fees do not fall under usury laws they have redistributed wealth to large corporations and their largest shareholders By exposing this predatory and nearly invisible system of fees Land of the Fee reshapes our understanding of wealth inequality in America Sport Finance Gil Fried, Timothy D. NCAA Manual National Collegiate Athletic Association,1996 Constitution operating bylaws administrative bylaws administrative organization The Athletic Trap Howard L. Nixon II,2014-03-15 The commercial model of college sports entangles presidents boards and their institutions in a complex web of dysfunctional commitments The unrivaled amount of cash poured into the college athletic system has made sports programs breeding grounds for corruption while diverting crucial resources from the academic mission of universities Like money in Washington politics the influence bought by a complex set of self interested actors seriously undermines movement toward reform while trapping universities in a cycle of escalating competition Longtime sport sociologist Howard L Nixon II approaches the issue from the perspective of college presidents how they are seduced by prestige or pressured by economics into building programs that move schools toward a commercial model of athletics Nixon situates his analysis in the context of what he calls the intercollegiate golden triangle a powerful social network of athletic media and private corporate commercial interests This network lures presidents and other university leaders into an athletic arms race with promises of institutional enhancements increased enrollments better student morale improved alumni loyalty more financial contributions and higher prestige These promises can cloud the judgment of college presidents and governing boards entangling them in an athletic trap that restricts their influence Unable to control spending inequalities and deviance within commercialized athletic programs universities are ensnared in financial political and social obligations that are difficult to sustain or escape Nixon clarifies the structure of this trap describes how higher education institutions fall into it and explores what it means for institutions and presidents caught in it This timely analysis also has relevance to the debates about the role of the NCAA and ongoing reform efforts in college sports The Athletic Trap will be of interest to university presidents board members and administrators sport sociologists concerned with the balance of power between academics and athletics and anyone else with a serious interest in college sports and its future
