Waiting for an Echo Christine Montross, 2020-07-21 L A Times Book Prize Finalist New York Times Book Review Paperback Row New York Times Books to Watch for in July Time Best New Books July 2020 Galvanized by her work in our nation s jails psychiatrist Christine Montross illuminates the human cost of mass incarceration and mental illness Dr Christine Montross has spent her career treating the most severely ill psychiatric patients Several years ago she set out to investigate why so many of her patients got caught up in the legal system when discharged from her care and what happened to them therein Waiting for an Echo is a riveting rarely seen glimpse into American incarceration It is also a damning account of policies that have criminalized mental illness shifting large numbers of people who belong in therapeutic settings into punitive ones The stark world of American prisons is shocking for all who enter it But Dr Montross's expertise the mind in crisis allowed her to reckon with the human stories behind the bars A father attempting to weigh the impossible calculus of a plea bargain A bright young woman whose life is derailed by addiction Boys in a juvenile detention facility who desperate for human connection invent a way to communicate with one another from cell to cell Overextended doctors and correctional officers who strive to provide care and security in environments riddled with danger In these encounters Montross finds that while our system of correction routinely makes people with mental illness worse just as routinely it renders mentally stable people psychiatrically unwell The system is quite literally maddening Our methods of incarceration take away not only freedom but also selfhood and soundness of mind In a nation where 95 percent of all inmates are released from prison and return to our communities this is a practice that punishes us all

Meet the Candidate Videos John Parmelee, 2003-03-30 Parmelee shows how presidential primary campaign videocassettes serve many functions for candidates on their road to the White House These videocassettes which include images and issues often based on polling data and focus groups are sent out before the primaries to battleground states to establish an initial image of the candidate A variety of methods are used to explore the videocassettes of the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates Gary Bauer Bill Bradley George W Bush Steve Forbes Al Gore and John McCain who released presidential primary meet the candidate videos during the 2000 race Frame analysis quantitative content analysis and in depth interviews with the producers of these videos were employed to provide answers to Parmelee's main research question What function do candidate videos serve in presidential primary campaigns Findings indicate that these videos which can run from 5 to 20 minutes in length serve a clear educational function to explain the candidates stand on key policy issues The videos which are mailed to voters journalists and potential donors and shown to Democratic and GOP faithful at party functions also serve as fundraisers surrogate speakers and inoculators But while the videos share some common functions each campaign targets its video to a slightly different audience based on the campaign's overall strategy Of particular interest to scholars students and other researchers involved with American presidential politics and political communications

Collecting Taxes Derek Miller, 2018-12-15 Taxes are often regarded as a dreaded topic but in reality the revenue from taxes is what keeps the United States government running Money from taxes helps the government to provide essential services such as schools roads and Social Security benefits Through accessible explanations that align with the C3 Framework for Social Studies State Standards this volume illustrates how the president Congress and the IRS work together to fund the federal government as well as the people and processes behind state and local taxes This book paints a vivid and engaging picture of the people who levy taxes and legislate tax reforms imparting the necessity of tax collection
