University Rankings William Yat Wai Lo, 2014-02-17 This book adopts a qualitative case study approach to provide the readers with a systematic delineation and interpretation of the implications of the university ranking phenomenon for Taiwan's higher education system. It reviews the literature on different theories concerning the global transformation of higher education and presents basic information on higher education in Taiwan. The author develops a four-dimensional framework for the analysis of the ranking phenomenon in the island state. First, the technological-ecological dimension aims to look into how the rankings have impacted Taiwan's higher education based on empirical findings from five Taiwanese public universities. Next, the technological-geographical dimension examines how Taiwan can use rankings to promote its interests in global higher education. The two conceptual dimensions focus on the relationship between the rankings and power in higher education. They show how the phenomenon can be read and explained through theoretical lenses from ecological and geographical perspectives. From an ecological perspective, the empirical evidence suggests that the influence of rankings varies throughout the academic hierarchy in Taiwan. The theoretical analysis then illustrates the relationship between the ranking phenomenon and the power structure in academic hierarchy. Geographically, while the empirical analysis is based on data from Taiwan, the theoretical analysis offers essential insights that help readers to understand the changing global landscape of higher education and its implications in East Asia.

Re-Positioning University Governance and Academic Work, 2010-01-01 This book examines changing ways that academic work is governed from outside and inside universities in the shifting social, cultural, and political contexts of new times. Chapters trace developments in institutions, national sectors, and internationally, all applying a global scope to identify significant shifts in the broader conditions of university operation. Attention is given to governance processes across all key domains of academic work: teaching, research, leadership, management, and institutional organisation. Key trends are analysed, including risk management, audit culture, league tables, techniques of accountability, and more. These investigations bring forth reconceptions of university governance as involving increasingly distributed and networked arrays of mechanisms affecting academic work practices, relations, values, emotional labours, and identities. Ambiguities, tensions, and complexities of academic work are explored, and questions are raised as to whether prevailing managerial modes of governance can address these features of university engagement with globalising contexts. The Price of Admission (Updated Edition) Daniel

Can We Price Carbon? Barry G. Rabe,2018-04-06 A political science analysis of the feasibility and sustainability of carbon pricing drawing from North American European and Asian case studies Climate change economists generally agree is best addressed by putting a price on the carbon content of fossil fuels by taxing carbon by cap and trade systems or other methods But what about the politics of carbon pricing Do political realities render carbon pricing impracticable In this book Barry Rabe offers the first major political science analysis of the feasibility and sustainability of carbon pricing drawing upon a series of real world attempts to price carbon over the last two decades in North America Europe and Asia Rabe asks whether these policies have proven politically viable and if adopted whether they survive political shifts and managerial challenges over time The entire policy life cycle is examined from adoption through advanced implementation on a range of pricing policies including not only carbon taxes and cap and trade but also such alternative methods as taxing fossil fuel extraction These case studies Rabe argues show that despite the considerable political difficulties carbon pricing can be both feasible and durable Smart Universities Vladimir L.
