The Fortunes of Everyman in Twentieth-century German Drama Brian Murdoch, 2022 Death still comes to Everyman but this study of three twentieth century German plays shows the harder challenge of living without salvation in an age of war and unprecedented mass destruction Death comes to everyone and in the late medieval morality play of Everyman the familiar skeleton forces the universalized central figure to come to terms with this Only his inner resources in the forms of Good Deeds and Knowledge ensure that he repents and is redeemed Three important twentieth century German plays echo Everyman Toller's Hinkemann Borchert's The Man Outside and Frisch's The Arsonists Firebugs but the unprecedented scale of killing in the First and Second World Wars changed the view of death while in the Cold War the nuclear destruction literally of everyone became a possibility Brian Murdoch traces the heritage of Everyman in the three plays in terms of dramatic effect changes in the image of Death and especially the problem of living with existential guilt Death now over fed still has to be faced but Everyman has the harder problem of living with the awareness of human wickedness without the possibility of salvation All three plays have tended to be viewed in their specific historical contexts but by viewing them less rigidly and as part of a long dramatic tradition Murdoch shows that all present a message of lasting and universal significance They pose directly to the theater audience questions not just of how to cope with death but how to cope with life

Nietzsche Was Probably Right: A Postcritical Assessment of the Christian Paradigm and Its Deity Steven Malinak, 2014-07-13 For a variety of reasons recent literature that focuses on the rationality of belief in God and the viability of the Christian worldview fails to stimulate critical thinking in the general population of believers Nietzsche Was Probably Right succeeds where many of these other works miss the mark It educates rather than coerces it focuses on issues critically relevant to the vast majority of Christians most importantly it does not preach to the choir but instead offers a balanced objective comprehensive overview of the issues Its tone and inclusive unbiased approach welcomes nonbelievers and believers into this important conversation offering a perspective that will satisfy anyone seeking a critical understanding of the Christian faith and its deity

Kohli,2024-11-14 How does the Christian produce good works in service of her neighbor after justification In Martin Luther s famous 1520 treatise The Freedom of a Christian the Reformer claimed that Christ s love springs spontaneously from the Christian s soul as good works In Luther s late medieval theological context however this statement was incoherent with philosophical theories of moral action which required an interplay between the soul and body This problem persists in Lutheran theology today where human passivity in justification is extended over the Christian s entire temporal life Yet Luther seemed to find solutions to this question in his late controversies with Johann Agricola over law and gospel This study looks to pneumatological

developments in that controversy for resources that support a more coherent view of moral action in the Christian life
