Rethinking Informed Consent in the Big Data Age Adam J.

Andreotta,2024-12-23 In the big data age providing informed consent online has never been more challenging Countless companies collect and share our personal data through devices apps and websites fuelling a growing data economy and the emergence of surveillance capitalism Few of us have the time to read the associated privacy policies and terms and conditions and thus are often unaware of how our personal data are being used This is a problem as in the last few years large tech companies have abused our personal data As privacy self management through the mechanism of providing online consent has become increasingly difficult some have argued that surveillance capitalism and the data economy more broadly need to be overthrown This book presents a different perspective It departs from the concept of revolutionary change to focus on pragmatic incremental solutions tailored to everyday contexts It scrutinises how consent is currently sought and provided online and offers suggestions about how online consent practices can be improved upon These include the possibility of subjecting consent gathering practices to ethics committees for review the creation of visual based consent agreements and privacy policies to help with transparency and engagement the development of software to protect privacy and the idea of automated consent functionalities that allow users to bypass the task of reading vast amounts of online consent agreements The author suggests that these small scale changes to online consent obtaining procedures could if successfully implemented provide us with a way of self managing our privacy in a way that avoids a revolutionary dismantling of the data economy In the process readers are encouraged to rethink the very purpose of providing informed consent online Rethinking Informed Consent in the Big Data Age will appeal to researchers in normative ethics applied ethics philosophy of law and the philosophy of AI It will also be of interest to business scholars communication researchers students and those in industry

Rethinking AI Grace Iordanov,2024-11-19 Rethinking AI aims to change people s perspective about artificial intelligence from being fear or sensation based to being knowledge and fact based Too many people in today s world are fearful of AI yet they do not understand how it works at any level Rethinking AI aims to change this view by offering an inside perspective in the field of AI to explain the logic behind how many of the most important AI algorithms work without heavy mathematics It shares answers to some of the most pressing questions about the emerging use of AI in certain industries along with a debate on the safety and ethics of AI for the future Readers will learn how some of the most important algorithms which serve as the basis for large language models like ChatGPT work such as convolutional neural networks recurrent neural networks and generative adversarial networks Rethinking AI also provides a roadmap to the reader through the different sections of the world of AI containing algorithms that can be used to solve many different problems In the process readers will learn about the methods for how data is prepared and inserted into the algorithms so they can get a complete perspective on how AI works The types of AI algorithms covered include linear regression classification clustering and deep learning The second part of the book goes over the ethics and use of different AI algorithms in various fields along with questions regarding each of them Rethinking AI specifically focuses on the sectors of education government and business which are poised to receive the most disruption from AI in the future The book also discusses the current research in the field of AI and whether AI should continue to be developed Reading Mediated Life Narratives Amy Carlson,2024-01-25 Calling attention to the unseen mediation and re mediation of life narratives in online and physical spaces this ground breaking exploration uncovers the ever changing strategies that authors artists publishers curators archivists and social media corporations adopt to shape control or resist the auto biographical in these texts Concentrating on contemporary life texts found in the material book museums on social media and archives that present perceptions of individuality and autonomy Reading Mediated Life Narratives exposes the traces of personal cultural technological and political mediation that must be considered when developing reading strategies for such life narratives Amy Carlson asks such questions as what agents act upon these narratives what do the text the creator and the audience gain and what do they lose how do constantly evolving technologies shape or stymie the auto biographical I and finally how do the mediations affect larger issues of social and collective memory An examination of the range of sites at which vulnerability and intervention can occur Carlson does not condemn but stages an intercession showing us how it is increasingly necessary to register mediated agents and processes modifying the witnessing or recuperation of original texts that could condition our reception With careful thought on how we remember how we create and control our pictures voices words and records Reading Mediated Life Narratives reveals how we construct and negotiate our social identities and memories but also what systems control us

Mastering AI Jeremy Kahn,2025-07-08 A Fortune magazine journalist draws on his expertise and extensive contacts among the companies and scientists at the forefront of artificial intelligence to offer dramatic predictions of AI s impact over the next decade from reshaping our economy and the way we work learn and create to unknitting our social fabric jeopardizing our democracy and fundamentally altering the way we think Within the next five years Jeremy Kahn predicts AI will disrupt almost every industry and enterprise with vastly increased efficiency and productivity It will restructure the workforce making AI copilots a must for every knowledge worker It will revamp education meaning children around the world can have personal portable tutors It will revolutionize health care making individualized targeted pharmaceuticals more affordable It will compel us to reimagine how we make art compose music and write and publish books The potential of generative AI to extend our skills talents and creativity as humans is undeniably exciting and promising But while this new technology has a bright future it also casts a dark and fearful shadow AI will provoke pervasive disruptive potentially devastating knock on effects Leveraging his unrivaled access to the leaders scientists futurists and others who are making AI a reality Kahn will argue that if not carefully designed and vigilantly regulated AI will deepen income inequality depressing wages while imposing winner take all markets across much of the economy AI risks undermining democracy as truth is overtaken by misinformation racial bias and harmful stereotypes Continuing a process begun by the internet AI will rewire our brains likely inhibiting our ability to think critically to remember and even to get along with one another unless we all take decisive action to prevent this from happening Much as Michael Lewis s classic The New New Thing offered a prescient insightful and eminently readable account of life inside the dot com bubble Mastering AI delivers much needed guidance for anyone eager to understand the AI boom and what comes next
