The Midway Run By Mark Twain

I sat down again, a-fading all over, for the house was all as still as death now, and so the widow wouldn't know. Well, after a long time I heard the clock, steady off in the tower—boom—boom—boom—twelve o'clock and all still again—still than ever. Pretty soon I heard a long wail—down in the dark, amongst the trees—something was a-singing. I set off and listened. Dearly I could just barely hear it “me-yow! me-yow!” down there. That was good! Saw it “me-yow! me-yow!” as still as I could, and then I put out the light and scambled out of the window on to the shed. Then I stepped down to the ground and crawled in amongst the trees, and sure enough, there was Tom Sawyer waiting for me.

The Emperor's New Suit By Hans Christian Andersen

One day two swindlers came to this city. They made people believe that they were weavers and declared they could manufacture the finest cloth to be imagined. Their colors and patterns, they said, were not only extraordinarily beautiful, but the clothes made of their material possessed the wonderful quality of being invisible to any man who was unfit for his office or very stupid. “That must be wonderful cloth,” thought the emperor. “If I were to be dressed in a suit made of this cloth, I should be able to find out which men in my empire were unfit for their places, and I could dismiss them from the service.”

“And how soon?” he asked.

“In ten days,” they answered, “that time.”

3. What was the emperor's main concern?

- A. The empire's economy
- B. The empire's military
- ☒ C. The empire's governance
- D. The empire's culture

4. The reader can infer that the swindlers were—

- A. very good

Emperor's New Suit Text

When the emperor had heard that the swindlers had made a suit for him, he was very pleased. He had heard that the suit was made of a material that was invisible to any man who was unfit for his office or very stupid. He thought that this was a very good idea, and he decided to wear the suit. He had the swindlers make a suit for him, and he wore it. He was very pleased with the suit, and he thought that it was a very good idea. He had the swindlers make a suit for him, and he wore it. He was very pleased with the suit, and he thought that it was a very good idea.
