Cultural Capital and Parental Involvement Siu-hang Kong, 2023-01-12 This book uses Pierre Bourdieu's cultural capital model as a theoretical framework for exploring how students in Beijing and Hong Kong perceive parental influences, their parents' cultural capital, and support on their participation in musical activities. By studying students' perceptions of their parents' cultural capital and support for their musical activities, this book revisits the applicability of Bourdieu's cultural capital model in the contemporary Chinese context and reveals how inequality in terms of parental cultural capital governs parents' support and influences the intergenerational transmission of cultural capital, which in turn contributes to inequality in terms of students' cultural capital.

Owning the World of Ideas Matthew David, Debora Halbert, 2015-08-17 Formally, ownership of ideas is legally impossible and can never be globally secured. Yet in very real and significant ways, these limits have been undone. In principle, ideas cannot be owned, yet undoing the distinction between ideas and tangible manifestations, the distinction which underpins the principle, allows the principle to hold even whilst its meaning is hollowed out. The Social Worlds of Nineteenth-Century Chamber Music
 Marie Sumner Lott, 2015-06-15 Music played an important role in the social life of nineteenth-century Europe, and music in the home provided a convenient way to entertain and communicate among friends and colleagues. String chamber music, in particular, fostered social interactions that helped build communities within communities. Marie Sumner Lott examines the music available to musical consumers in the nineteenth century and what that music tells us about their tastes, priorities, and activities. Her social history of chamber music performance places the works of canonic composers such as Schubert, Brahms, and Dvořák in relation to lesser-known but influential peers. The book explores the dynamic relationships among the active agents involved in the creation of Romantic music and shows how each influenced the others' choices in a rich collaborative environment. In addition to documenting the ways companies acquired and marketed sheet music, Sumner Lott reveals how the publication and performance of chamber music differed from that of ephemeral piano and song genres or more monumental orchestral and operatic works. Several distinct niche markets existed within the audience for chamber music, and composers created new musical works for their use and enjoyment. Insightful and groundbreaking, The Social Worlds of Nineteenth-Century Chamber Music revises prevailing views of middle-class influence on nineteenth-century musical style and presents new methods for interpreting the meanings of musical works for musicians both past and present.

The book's media systems approach helps students to look carefully at how media content is created, distributed, and exhibited in the new world that the digital revolution has created. From newspapers to video games and social networking to mobile platforms, Media Today prepares students to live in the digital world of media.

A Dam in the River
 Jeffrey M. Camhi, 2013 Genetic Criticism and the Creative Process
 William Kinderman, Joseph E. Jones, 2009 Studies of the genesis of musical, literary, and theatrical works. Not only the final outcome but the process of creative endeavor has long attracted attention in various artistic disciplines, but only recently has the potential of such research been seriously explored. The most rigorous basis for the study of artistic creativity comes not from anecdotal or autobiographical reports but from original handwritten sketches and drafts and preliminary studies as well as from revised manuscripts and typescripts, corrected proof sheets, and similar primary sources. The term genetic criticism or critique g n tique relates not to the field of genetics but to the genesis of works of art as studied in a broad and inclusive context The essays in this volume explore aspects of genetic criticism in an interdisciplinary context emphasizing music literature and theater A common thread pertains to the essential continuity between a work and its genesis This volume brings together essays from leading scholars on subjects ranging from biblical scholarship to Samuel Beckett and from Beethoven's Eroica Symphony to very recent musical compositions Contributors Nicolas Donin Daniel Ferrer Alan Gosman R B Graves Joseph E Jones William Kinderman Jean Louis Lebrave Lewis Lockwood Geert Lernout Peter McCallum Armine Kotin Mortimer and James L Zychowicz William Kinderman is Professor of Musicology at the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign Joseph E Jones is visiting Assistant Professor of Musicology at the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign
