Communication Yearbook 35 Charles T. Salmon, 2012-03-28 Communication Yearbook 34 continues the tradition of publishing state of the discipline literature reviews and essays Editor Charles T Salmon presents a volume that is highly international and interdisciplinary in scope with authors and chapters representing the broad global interests of the International Communication Association The volume is organized into three sections pertaining to interdisciplinary theory normative ideals and political realities and communication and societies in transition Internationally renowned scholars serve as respondents for the three sections With a blend of chapters emphasizing timely public policy concerns and enduring theoretical questions this volume will be valuable to scholars throughout the discipline of communication studies

Rhetorical and Critical Approaches to Public Relations II Dr Robert L Heath, Elizabeth L Toth, 2013-11-05 This volume is the first to illustrate the application of rhetorical theory and critical perspectives to explain public relations practices It provides a systematic and coherent statement of the critical guidelines and philosophical underpinnings of public relations and as such should guide pedagogy and practice It also supplies pedagogic and critical standards with which to meet the needs of an increasingly sophisticated society that tends to reject all of public relations as propaganda With the enormous amount of money spent on product publicity and public policy debates this book gives practitioners a sense of whether their public relations campaigns make a contribution to the organizational bottom line by means of achieving the timeless standards of the art of rhetoric tradition in composition studies post process theory or at least the different incarnations of post process theory discussed by the contributors represented in this collection of original essays endorses the fundamental idea that no codifiable or generalizable writing process exists or could exist Post process theorists hold that the practice of writing cannot be captured by a generalized process or a big theory Most post process theorists hold three assumptions about the act of writing writing is public writing is interpretive and writing is situated The first assumption is the commonsensical claim that writing constitutes a public interchange By interpretive act post process theorists generally mean something as broad as making sense of and not exclusively the ability to move from one code to another To interpret means more than merely to paraphrase it means to enter into a relationship of understanding with other language users And finally because writing is a public act that requires interpretive interaction with others writers always write from some position or some place Writers are never nowhere they are situated Leading theorists and widely published scholars in the field contributors are Nancy Blyler John Clifford Barbara Couture Nancy C DeJoy Sidney I Dobrin Elizabeth Ervin Helen Ewald David Foster Debra Journet Thomas Kent Gary A Olson Joseph Petraglia George Pullman David Russell and John Schilb

Post-process Theory Thomas Kent, 1999 Breaking with the still dominant process
