Multiwavelength Mapping of Galaxy Formation and Evolution Alvio Renzini, Ralf Bender, 2005-05-23. The possibilities of astronomical observation have dramatically increased over the last decade. Major satellites like the Hubble Space Telescope, Chandra, and XMM-Newton are complemented by numerous large ground-based observatories from 8m-10m optical telescopes to sub-mm and radio facilities. As a result, observational astronomy has access to virtually the whole electromagnetic spectrum of galaxies even at high redshifts. Theoretical models of galaxy formation and cosmological evolution now face a serious challenge to match the plethora of observational data. In October 2003, over 170 astronomers from 15 countries met for a 4-day workshop to extensively illustrate and discuss all major observational projects and ongoing theoretical efforts to model galaxy formation and evolution. This volume contains the complete proceedings of this meeting and is therefore a unique and timely overview of the current state of research in this rapidly evolving field.

The Epoch of Galaxy Formation Carlos S. Frenk, Richard S. Ellis, T. Shanks, Alan F. Heavens, John A. Peacock, 2012-12-06. Scientists in the late twentieth century are not the first to view galaxy formation as a phenomenon worthy of explanation in terms of the known laws of physics. Already in 1754, Kant regarded the problem as essentially solved. In his Universal Natural History and Theory of the Universe, he wrote: "If in the immeasurable space in which all the suns of the Milky Way have formed themselves, we assume a point around which through some cause or other the first formation of nature out of chaos began, there the largest mass and a body of extraordinary attraction will have arisen which has thereby become capable of compelling all the systems in the process of being formed within an enormous sphere around it to fall towards itself as their centre and to build up a system around it on the great scale." Observation puts this conjecture almost beyond doubt. More than 200 years later, a similar note of confidence was voiced by Zel'dovich at an IAU symposium held in Tallin in 1911. Extrapolating to the next symposium somewhere in the early eighties, one can be pretty sure that the question of the formation of galaxies and clusters will be solved in the next few years. Perhaps few astronomers today would share Kant's near certainty or feel that Zel'dovich's prophecy has been fulfilled. Many, however, will sympathize with the optimistic outlook of these two statements.

Toward a New Millennium in Galaxy Morphology David L. Block, Iv nio Puerari, Alan Stockton, DeWet Ferreira, 2012-12-06. South Africa: a land of paradigm shifts. A land where we are willing to leave behind the old to bravely accept the new. What do we need to exit the dark ages in the morphology of galaxies? How prevalent is the cherishing of old concepts? Traditional morphology has been mask-oriented, focusing on masks of dust and gas which may constitute only 5 percent of the dynamical mass of a galaxy. Some of the world's foremost astronomers flew to South Africa to address morphologically related issues at an International Conference; the proceedings of which are contained in this volume. Examine predicted extinction curves for primordial dust at high redshift Stars evolve why not dust Read about the breakdown of the Hubble sequence at a redshift of one Explore the morphology of rings the mysteries of metal rich globular clusters vigorous star formation in the Large Magellanic Cloud the world of secular evolution where galaxies change their shapes within one Hubble time And much more Examine a new kinematical classification scheme of the unmasked dust penetrated near infrared images of spiral galaxies This volume contains over 80 refereed contributions including 18 in depth keynote review articles 40 pages of questions and answers a panel discussion transcribed from tape and 24 colour plates The volume is unique in that contributions from both high and low redshift experts are represented at a level readily accessible to postdoctoral students entering the exciting world of morphology whether it be of the local or more distant Universe Universal Access in Human-Computer Interaction.
