Community Care Grant provides an important safety net for those most in need by helping them to obtain essential items. The scheme has been frozen in cash terms since 2006/07 however and future funding is expected to remain at 141 million a year. Applying for and awarding a grant is essentially a paper based exercise and the quality of decision making is unsatisfactory. Around half of the appeals considered were found to contain significant errors because decisions were based on incomplete information and without challenging applicants statements. At 12% of total Grant funds distributed administrative error is too high. The risk of fraud and error is further increased by a lack of basic checks and balances. Customers are not required to keep receipts and no spot checks are carried out by the Department. Moreover at 19 million in 2008/09 and 13% of total funds distributed administration costs are also unacceptably high. Funding is not fairly distributed across the country and more should be done to forecast demand based on established patterns and trends. Concerns were raised five years ago yet the Department still does not know whether fund distribution is fair. Finally there is scope to make the purchasing arrangements more efficient. Agreeing central contracts for frequently requested items could generate financial savings of around 14 million a year for the scheme and provide a guarantee of quality to applicants. Such an approach can be used even if responsibility for decision making transfers to local authorities. Technological advances such as the use of store cards could also make purchasing easier for customers while preserving their dignity. Federal Register, 2006-03. Code of Federal Regulations, 1990.
