Nukuoro Sculptures From Micronesia:

Nukuoro Christian Kaufmann, Oliver Wick, 2013 Nukuoro Atoll is a ring of tiny islands in the south Pacific that has a total area of only 17 square kilometers and is home to only three hundred residents Yet the tiny aitu sculptures produced there are known worldwide appreciated for their unusual forms and coveted for their rarity This book features images of almost half the aitu sculptures known to exist starting with the earliest ones that were purchased by trader Johann Stanislaus Kubary in 1873 These pieces are distributed throughout museums across the globe and they are rarely seen as a group let alone photographed in such stunning detail The resulting book offers an unprecedented chance to assess the form and the achievement of the sculptors of Nukuoro Atoll The Pacific Arts of Polynesia and Micronesia Adrienne L. Buschmann, 2023-07 Hoarding New Guinea provides a new cultural history of colonialism that pays close attention to the millions of Indigenous artifacts that serve as witnesses to Europe's colonial past in ethnographic museums Rainer F Buschmann investigates the roughly two hundred thousand artifacts extracted from the colony of German New Guinea from 1870 to 1920 Reversing the typical trajectories that place ethnographic museums at the center of the analysis he concludes that museum interests in material culture alone cannot account for the large quantities of extracted artifacts Buschmann moves beyond the easy definition of artifacts as trophies of colonial defeat or religious conversion instead employing the term hoarding to describe the irrational amassing of Indigenous artifacts by European colonial residents Buschmann also highlights Indigenous material culture as a bargaining chip for its producers to engage with the imposed colonial regime In addition by centering an area of collection rather than an institution he opens new areas of investigation that include non professional ethnographic collectors and a sustained rather than superficial consideration of Indigenous peoples as producers behind the material culture Hoarding New Guinea answers the call for a more significant historical focus on colonial ethnographic collections in European museums

Kaufmann,Douglas Newton,1997-09 A documentary section about the principal cultural groups of the region provides an essential reference An excellent map adds further value The Evolution of Social Institutions Dmitri M.

Bondarenko,Stephen A. Kowalewski,David B. Small,2020-09-12 This book presents a novel and innovative approach to the study of social evolution using case studies from the Old and the New World from prehistory to the present This approach is based on examining social evolution through the evolution of social institutions Evolution is defined as the process of structural change Within this framework the society or culture is seen as a system composed of a vast number of social institutions that are constantly interacting and changing As a result the structure of society as a whole is also evolving and changing The authors posit that the combination of evolving social institutions explains the non linear character of social evolution and that every society develops along its own pathway and pace Within this framework society should be seen as the result of the compound effect of the interactions of social institutions specific to it Further the transformation of social institutions and relations between them is taking place not only within individual societies but also globally as institutions may be trans societal and even institutions that operate in one society can arise as a reaction to trans societal trends and demands The book argues that it may be more productive to look at institutions even within a given society as being parts of trans societal systems of institutions since despite their interconnectedness societies still have boundaries which their members usually know and respect Accordingly the book is a must read for researchers and scholars in various disciplines who are interested in a better understanding of the origins history successes and failures of social institutions American Anthropology in Micronesia Robert Kiste,Mac Marshall,1999-03-01 This text evaluates how anthropological research in the Trust Territory has affected the Micronesian people the US colonial administration and the discipline of anthropology itself It analyzes the interplay between anthropology and history in particular how American colonialism affected anthropologists use of history and examines the research that has been conducted by American anthropologists in specific topical areas of sociocultural anthropology The text concentrates on disciplinary concerns but also considers the connections between work done in the era of applied anthropology and that completed later when anthropology was pursued mainly for its own sake
