Teach to Work Patty Alper, 2017-03-27 The United States is abundantly rich in adults with know how By connecting mentors educated adults with expertise and knowledge with mentees teens and young adults who lack motivation experience and role models in their lives we can begin to close this gap dramatically We can prepare the next generation for the jobs of tomorrow by adding real world project based experience to their education Teach to Work is a call to action for mentors currently sitting on the sidelines Whether you are a banker lawyer architect accountant engineer IT specialist or artist you have the experience and skillset to become an ambassador of talent grit and transferable skills The book provides a step by step guide to help professionals share their knowledge with the next generation of workers through this intergenerational experience Based on Alper s fifteen years of mentoring inner city high school students Teach to Work proves how corporations professionals and boomers can have a significant impact on the professional future of America s youth Drawing from real life stories and letters received from students teachers and fellow mentors describing pride of accomplishment Alper helps professionals embark on this journey to transform lives mentoring one student at a time Critical Perspectives on Global Competition in Higher Education Laura M. Portnoi, Sylvia S. Bagley, 2014-12-18 This volume delivers a cutting edge analysis on vernacular globalization or how local forces mediate global trends It delves into the vital facets of the quest for global competitiveness including Global university rankings World class universities University mergers Quality assurance Cross border higher education International education hubs The authors situate their topics within current international scholarship and demonstrate the myriad avenues through which local actors in higher education may respond to global competition They pose critical questions about the impact of global competition in an increasingly hierarchical higher education environment interrogating the potential for social injustice that arises By providing an alternative perspective to the descriptive normative approach that dominates the scholarship on global competition in higher education the chapters in this volume open a fresh and invaluable dialogue in this arena This is the 168th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Higher Education Addressed to presidents vice presidents deans and other higher education decision makers on all kinds of campuses it provides timely information and authoritative advice about major issues and administrative problems confronting every institution University Rankings Jung Cheol Shin, Robert K. Toutkoushian, Ulrich Teichler, 2011-06-06 This ground breaking and exhaustive analysis of university ranking surveys scrutinizes their theoretical bases methodological issues societal impact and policy implications providing readers with a deep understanding of these controversial comparators The authors propose that university rankings are misused by policymakers and institutional leaders alike They assert that these interested parties overlook the highly problematic internal logic of ranking methodologies even as they obsess over the surveys assessment of their status The result is that institutions suffer from short termism realigning their resources to maximize their relative rankings While rankings are widely used in policy and academic discussions this is the first book to explore the theoretical and methodological issues of ranking itself It is a welcome contribution to an often highly charged debate Far from showing how to manipulate the system this collection of work by key researchers aims to enlighten interested parties phenomenon for Taiwan's higher education system. It reviews the literature on different theories concerning the global transformation of higher education and presents basic information on higher education in Taiwan. The author develops a four-dimensional framework for the analysis of the ranking phenomenon in the island state. First, the technological/ecological dimension aims to look into how the rankings have impacted Taiwan's higher education based on empirical findings from five Taiwanese public universities. Next, the technological/geographical dimension examines how Taiwan can use rankings to promote its interests in global higher education. The two conceptual dimensions focus on the relationship between the rankings and power in higher education. They show how the phenomenon can be read and explained through theoretical lenses from ecological and geographical perspectives. From an ecological perspective, the empirical evidence suggests that the influence of rankings varies throughout the academic hierarchy in Taiwan. The theoretical analysis then illustrates the relationship between the ranking phenomenon and the power structure in academic hierarchy. Geographically, while the empirical analysis is based on data from Taiwan, the theoretical analysis offers essential insights that help readers to understand the changing global landscape of higher education and its implications in East Asia.
