Products Mrs.Poonam Gupta,Mr.Walter Mahler,1994-03-01 The domestic taxation of petroleum products is an important source of revenue in most countries However there is a wide variation of tax rates on petroleum products across countries which cannot be explained by economic theory alone This paper surveys different considerations advanced for taxing petroleum and presents petroleum tax rate data in 120 countries It concludes that a significant reduction in the present extremely wide variation in petroleum prices and tax rates appears warranted Policy Complementarities Mr.David T. Coe,Mr.Dennis J. Snower,1996-08-01 This paper argues that an important group of labor market policies are complementary in the sense that the effect of each policy is greater when implemented in conjunction with the other policies than in isolation This may explain why the diverse piecemeal labor market reforms in many European countries in recent years have had so little success in reducing unemployment What is required instead is deeper labor market reforms across a broader range of complementary policies and institutions To be politically feasible these reforms must be combined with measures to address distributional issues Taxation and the Cost of Capital in Hungary and Poland International Monetary Fund,1990-12-01 This paper compares the effective rates of taxation faced by a representative investor located in a major capital exporting country for investments in machinery and buildings in nine capital importing European countries Poland and Hungary are found to have relatively high effective tax rates on equity financed investment The analysis suggests that both countries would benefit from streamlining capital cost recovery allowances and possibly lowering statutory corporate tax rates as permitted by the revenue constraint rather than providing tax preferences for foreign investors

International Vat Harmonization Mr.Steven A. Symansky,Mr.Jacob A. Frenkel,Assaf Razin,1991-02-01 This paper highlights key macroeconomic issues related to VAT harmonization A model is developed which emphasizes the effects of changes in the time profile of various taxes on international behavior Dynamic simulations reveal that the macroeconomic and welfare implications of VAT harmonization including conflicts of interest depend critically on the tax system and the degree of substitution governing temporal and intertemporal allocations We also demonstrate that the effects of revenue neutral tax conversions between income and consumption tax systems undertaken by a single country depend critically on international differences in behavior All Hands ,1998 International Spillovers of Taxation International Monetary Fund,1989-05-11 This paper highlights key issues pertinent for the understanding of international effects of domestic tax policies and of international tax harmonization The analytical framework adopts the saving investment balance approach to the analysis of international economic interdependence focusing on income consumption and international borrowing A simulation model is developed that is richer in structure than the two period analytical model The analytical and simulation frameworks are used to analyze the consequences of revenue neutral conversions between income and consumption VAT tax systems the international effects of budget deficits and public debt management and the effects of international tax harmonization We demonstrate that the effects of such changes in the structure of taxes depend critically on international
