Digital Therapies in Psychosocial Rehabilitation and Mental Health Marques, António, Queirós, Ricardo, 2021-12-10
Digital health is the convergence of digital technologies with health to enhance the efficiency of healthcare delivery and make healthcare more personalized and precise. These technologies generally focus on the development of interconnected health systems to improve the use of computational technologies, smart devices, computational analysis techniques, and communication media to help healthcare professionals and their patients manage illnesses and health risks as well as promote health and well-being. Digital tools play a central role in the most promising future healthcare innovations and create tremendous opportunities for a more integrated and value-based system along with a stronger focus on patient outcomes and, as such, having access to the latest research findings and progressions is of paramount importance. Digital Therapies in Psychosocial Rehabilitation and Mental Health introduces the latest digital innovations in the mental health field and points out new ways it can be used in patient care while also delving into some of the limits of its application. It presents a comprehensive state-of-the-art approach to digital mental health technologies and practices within the broad confines of psychosocial and mental health practices and also provides a canvas to discuss emerging digital mental health solutions propelled by the ubiquitous availability of personalized devices and affordable wearable sensors and innovative technologies such as virtual and augmented reality, mobile apps, robots, and intelligent platforms. It is ideal for medical professors and students, researchers, practitioners of healthcare, companies, managers, and other professionals where digital health technologies can be used. Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, 1997 Technology and Adolescent Health Megan A. Moreno, Andrea J. Hoopes, 2020-03-20 Technology and Adolescent Health: In Schools and Beyond discusses how today's adolescents are digital natives using technology at home and in school to access information for entertainment, to socialize, and to do schoolwork. Molodynski, Sarah Marie Farrell, Dinesh Bhugra, 2024-01-04 Medical students are the medical workforce of the future responsible for both individual and population health. With an ageing global population, changes brought about by the COVID 19 pandemic and the increased computerisation and roboticization of medicine, doctors will require ever more flexibility, foresight and courage going forward. It is crucial that their training equips them for the challenges ahead. However, recent research has found worryingly high levels of stress and burnout amongst these individuals, leading to more students dropping out or leaving the profession early. This volume presents research findings on the rates of burnout in medical students from around the world and provides ideas for a model of care to help educators and individuals take steps towards better student wellbeing. The first section covers the development of medical teaching, likely future directions of healthcare and the role of doctors, the current global situation in high middle and low income countries and how we measure and define burnout. The second section analyses case studies from countries across the globe, reviewing regional themes of burnout, mental health symptoms and stressors. The third section hears from the medical students themselves, considers circumstances such as studying abroad or studying with health conditions and looks at potential interventions and good practice for the future, including the role of the universities and institutions and advice to medical students on how to look after themselves. A truly international collaboration with a focus on medical student mental health and wellbeing, this book will be of interest to medical education professionals, occupational health physicians and medical practitioners as well as researchers, medical students and trainees.

Synergizing Data Envelopment Analysis and Machine Learning for Performance Optimization in Healthcare Ajibesin, Adeyemi Abel, G., Naveen Sundar, Thangavel, Senthil Kumar, 2025-05-02 Healthcare systems face the challenge of delivering high quality care while efficiently managing costs and resources. Traditional methods of performance evaluation often fall short when addressing the complex and diverse nature of healthcare operations. Data envelopment analysis (DEA) has been used to measure the efficiency of healthcare providers, but its linear deterministic nature limits its adaptability to dynamic environments. In contrast, machine learning (ML) can handle complex non-linear relationships and high dimensional data, offering deeper insights and predictive capabilities. The synergy between DEA and ML presents an opportunity to overcome these limitations and drive more effective performance optimization. It leads to efficiency.

assessments through predictive analytics and improved resource allocation with data driven insights and optimizing clinical pathways and decision support systems for better patient outcomes Synergizing Data Envelopment Analysis and Machine Learning for Performance Optimization in Healthcare explores the integration of DEA and ML to enhance performance optimization in healthcare improving efficiency care quality and resource management It examines theoretical foundations methodological innovations and practical applications providing a comprehensive resource with a key focus on development of algorithms to address challenges in healthcare optimization Covering topics such as healthcare equipment manufacturing human augmentation and robotic surgery this book is an excellent resource for hospital administrators clinical managers clinical decision makers policymakers public health officials professionals researchers scholars academics and more
