Making Reform Work Robert Zemsky, 2009-08-11 Making Reform Work is a practical narrative of ideas that begins by describing who is saying what about American higher education who is angry who is disappointed and why Most of the pleas for changing American colleges and universities that originate outside the academy are lamentations on a small number of too often repeated themes The critique from within the academy focuses on issues principally involving money and the power of the market to change colleges and universities Sandwiched between these perspectives is a public that still has faith in an enterprise that it really doesn't understand Robert Zemsky one of a select group of scholars who participated in Secretary of Education Margaret Spellings's 2005 Commission on the Future of Higher Education signed off on the commission's report with reluctance In Making Reform Work he presents the ideas he believes should have come from that group to forge a practical agenda for change Zemsky argues that improving higher education will require enlisting faculty leadership on the one hand and on the other a strategy for changing the higher education system writ large Directing his attention from what can't be done to what can be done Zemsky provides numerous suggestions These include a renewed effort to help students performance in high schools and a stronger focus on the science of active learning not just teaching methods He concludes by suggesting a series of dislodging events for example making a three year baccalaureate the standard undergraduate degree congressional rethinking of student aid in the wake of the loan scandal and a change in the rules governing endowments that could break the gridlock that today holds higher education reform captive Making Reform Work offers three rules for successful college and university transformation don't vilify don't play games and come to the table with a well thought out strategy rather than a sharply worded lamentation Army Logistician, 1985 The official magazine of United States Army logistics Career Journeys of Diverse Leaders in Higher Education George Blumenthal, Josefina Castillo Baltodano, Ding-Jo H. Currie, 2024-06-03 This book provides a study of diverse leadership development through the extraordinary journeys of ten retired presidents and chancellors who have left an indelible impact on higher education Representing a rich multicultural background each chapter tells a personal story of transformation and triumph highlighting the various non traditional paths to senior leadership Hailing from both private and public two and four year institutions across the United States these trailblazers showcase that excellence knows no bounds Contributors reflect on the struggles and engagements with racialized ethnic realities and growing awareness of gender inequities Discussion questions supply rich ground for meaningful engagement in book clubs leadership classes workshops and institutes prompting readers to plumb the depths of their own experiences in confronting justice equity and inclusion Filled with captivating narratives touching on the common threads of shared values and invaluable life lessons that weave through diverse experiences this book is a testament to the power of inspiration and motivation for those considering or dismissing their aspirations to achieve leadership roles in higher education School of engineering.
