The Color of Family Michael O'Malley, 2024-11-22 A uniquely blended personal family history and history of the changing definitions of race in America A zealous eugenicist ran Virginia's Bureau of Vital Statistics in the first half of the twentieth century misusing his position to reclassify people he suspected of hiding their true race But in addition to being blinded by his prejudices he and his predecessors were operating more by instinct than by science Their whole dubious enterprise was subject not just to changing concepts of race but outright error propagated across generations This is how Michael O'Malley a descendant of a Philadelphia Irish American family came to have colored ancestors in Virginia In The Color of Family O'Malley teases out the various changes made to citizens names and relationships over the years and how they affected families as they navigated what it meant to be white colored mixed race and more In the process he delves into the interplay of genealogy and history exploring how the documents that establish identity came about and how private companies like

Ancestry.com increasingly supplant state and federal authorities and not for the better Combining the history of O Malley's own family with the broader history of racial classification The Color of Family is an accessible and lively look at the ever shifting and often poisoned racial dynamics of the United States Environmental Health Perspectives, 2010 Documents Council of Europe: Parliamentary Assembly, 2005-02-03 Chinese Americans' Perceptions of Race, Education, and Affirmative Action Shasha Lin, 2025-09-20 Chinese Americans have emerged as increasingly prominent and influential actors in the decades long debates over affirmative action in college admissions which was struck down by the US Supreme Court in June 2023 Despite being portrayed as the Asian origin group least supportive of affirmative action little is understood about how the broader Chinese American community makes meanings around this complex and contested policy Drawing on ethnographic observations in California and diverse viewpoints from students parents organizational leaders activists college admissions consultants and educators within the Chinese American community this book probes the nuanced and divergent ways Chinese Americans make sense of race education and affirmative action It finds a community grappling with the potent Asian admissions myths questions of fairness in college admissions and their positioning within racial discourses and politics This book is a timely contribution to the much needed dialogue on race ethnicity and higher education in the post affirmative action era It is also a must read for university policymakers who aim to re establish public trust amidst declining confidence in higher education and heightened judicial and public scrutiny of their admissions policies and practices
